New York, Feb. 2.—Detectives are today investigating the records of all the Thaw jurors and there is a likelihood that one or more will be dropped when the trial is resumed Monday. Thaw is believed to have obtained a slight advantage in the selection of the jury. No juror was selected who was not satisfactory to every one of Thaw's counsel, and to the defendant. With one exception, John S. Dennee, all the jurors are married. Lawyer Peabody denied a report printed that Thaw would take the stand for himself. "That bridge we will not cross until we arrive there," he explained. Despite this statement the impression is general that Thaw will be a witness in his own behalf. Evelyn Thaw visited her husband in the Tombs today.

New York, Feb. 2.—The selection of the twelfth juror in the Thaw trial came at the end of a long and tedious day—the eighth day of the trial—and immediately after this last member of the trial panel had been sworn in, Justice Fitzgerald ordered an adjournment until 10:30 Monday morning. District Attorney Jerome, who has been contending since Thursday afternoon for the removal of one of the men now in the jury box, but who failed to gain the consent of the defendant's counsel to a change, was still reluctant as court adjourned to begin the actual proceedings without a further opportunity to plead with Thaw's attorney. At his request, therefore, Justice Fitzgerald ordered all talesmen who have not yet been examined to be in court Monday morning. Mr. Jerome then announced that if there should be no change in the situation, the state would proceed to place its direct testimony before the jury at the Monday morning session. The defense was expected to be in readiness to proceed by Monday afternoon.

Thaw seemed to be in the best of spirits as the last juror was sworn. Forty talesmen had been examined during the day and everyone in the courtroom, including the defendant himself, was waiting listlessly for adjournment when Bernard Gerstman, agent, declared he had no opinion that would prevent his rendering a fair and impartial verdict, and he was not prejudiced against any line of defense and would give the prisoner the benefit of every reasonable doubt.

The district attorney challenged the juror for cause. Thaw's attorneys were not content to let the talesman go, and on cross-examination brought his answers within the legal requirements, Gerstman saying that he meant by "doubt" any doubt that a reasonable man might entertain. Justice Fitzgerald held this a competent answer and overruled District Attorney Jerome's challenge. "The people are content," announced Mr. Jerome, and the juror was sworn. Thaw smiled, and his wife exchanging satisfied glances.

Satisfied With Jury.

"We are entirely satisfied with the jury," said Clifford W. Harbridge, Thaw's leading counsel, and he added the intimation that he would not consent to any further changes. "The defense will be ready to proceed the minute the prosecution has finished its case," declared John B. Gleason, another of Thaw's attorneys.

From the questions which have so persistently been put to the talesmen by Thaw's attorneys, as to any prejudice against a defense of insanity, it is generally conceded that a plea of emotional insanity will be the main reliance of the young defendant. This probably will lead to a cross-questioning of the state's witnesses as to any peculiarity they may have noticed in Thaw's conduct the night of the tragedy, in which event the conclusion of the state's direct testimony may take longer than is now anticipated.

Assistant District Attorney Garvin will make the opening address for the prosecution. His remarks will be brief, occupying perhaps not more than 20 minutes. The state then will introduce only such witnesses as are necessary to prove that Stanford White was shot and killed by Harry K. Thaw on the Madison Square Roof Garden, the night of June 25. In announcing that the introduction will not require more than one session of the court, Mr. Jerome is evidently of the opinion that the cross-examination of the state's witnesses to the actual tragedy may not be very extensive.

GOVERNMENT

Bitterly Arraigned by French Cardinal in a Pastoral Note.

Lyons, France, Feb. 2.—Cardinal Coullié, archbishop of Lyons, in a long pastoral letter adjuring the faithful to pray for a victory for the church, bitterly arraigns the government. It begins: "The aim of our enemies is to destroy all religion, to dethrone God and make the people believe we are in the world by some causeless accident, for an ephemeral existence, finally to disappear into the nothingness from which we sprang." The cardinal reviews the successive steps of this "hellish plot," beginning with the expulsion of the members of religious orders and ending with the complete spoliation of the church and an attempt to destroy its divine constitution.

IMPORTANT CASE DECIDED SATURDAY BY THE CIRCUIT COURT

In the case of the Roebeling Sons Company vs. The Shawnee Valley Coal and Iron Company, suit to recover the statutory liability of stockholders in that company and heard before the Circuit court about one month ago, was decided by the Circuit court. They held that each solvent stockholder pay the sum of $1000 upon each share of his stock to create a sum to pay creditors. They found that the stockholders were not liable in this action for the unpaid stock subscription. They also discharged the estate of Charles W. Snider from any liability. They held that the discharge in bankruptcy of John B. Hamilton did not discharge him from his liability in this action, and found him solvent to the extent of $15,000. They also found of John C. Hamilton did not discharge him from his liability for about $25,000. A judgment was rendered against stockholders and the money ordered paid in to satisfy claims of creditors. The Franklin

Bank Company is about the only creditor and amounts paid in by order of the court will aggregate in the neighborhood of $30,000. A. A. Stasel, attorney for plaintiff; attorneys for defendants, Kibler, J. B. Jones, J. Reese, Flory & Flory, Fulton & Fulton and Carl Norpell.

The Circuit court Saturday handed down its decision in the case of George Nichols vs. The American Telephone Company and William Saunders, a suit to enforce the construction of telephone lines in a location other than that provided by the written contract of the parties. The court held that under the evidence the real party in interest was the Ohio Telephone and Telegraph Company, and not the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The case was dismissed as to the latter, but enjoined Saunders from attempting to construct the line in the name of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and adjudged that Saunders pay one half of the costs and that the plaintiff pay the other half.

In Which the Petition of the Mutual Life Insurance Company is Dismissed.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 2.—Judge Robert Stout of the state circuit court held that the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York is not entitled to the relief sought in its petition filed several weeks since, in which it asked an injunction against Henry R. Frewitt, insurance commissioner of Kentucky, and dismissed the petition. An appeal will be taken at once to the court of appeals of Kentucky to finally settle the law points involved in this case. In the meantime the company remains as it has been since the commissioner took the first step to revoke its license to do business in the state, that is, it continues to do business here as it has always done. In order to permit this, the circuit judge granted a continuance of the temporary restraining order first obtained on petition of the company.

DASHED PAST THE FLAGMAN AND TERRIFIC CRASH FOLLOWED

Engineer Higgins, Fireman Tipton and Conductor Taylor
Spence of Newark Injured Friday at Norwood-- National G. A. R. Commander Brown Also Hurt.

B. & O. Engineer John C. Higgins of 216 East Main street, Fireman William Tipton, Bower avenue, and Conductor Taylor Spence of Newark, were injured in a collision between B. & O. train No. 104, due here at 12:35, and a switch engine at Norwood, near Cincinnati, Friday afternoon. Fortunately none of the injured is in a serious condition.

The heavy fog yesterday morning caused the wreck. The Pittsburg Limited, known as No. 104, was 20 minutes late and Engineer J. C. Higgins had pulled the throttle wide open after leaving Bond Hill. However, there is a heavy grade between Bond Hill and Norwood, and the train had not attained a high rate of speed when, just as it dashed past the St. Joseph Foundling Asylum, the engineer noticed a man a few yards ahead waving a flag frantically. In another moment this man had been left far behind and Higgins saw looming up in the fog, the tender of an engine. He grabbed the reverse lever, pushed it "home", threw on the emergency brake and shouting a warning to his fireman, W. A. Tipton, leaped from the engine just as the crash came. His fireman followed him.

Engineer Higgins rolled down the bank and when picked up a few minutes later, was found to have a badly lacerated back and a number of cuts and contusions about the body. Fireman Tipton escaped with a bruised knee. Conductor Taylor Spence was slightly bruised by being thrown against a seat. His left forearm was cut and he had a small gash over his right eye.

The passengers on No. 104 were badly shaken up, but no one was seriously injured. Commander-in-Chief R. B. Brown of the G. A. R., had his ankle sprained. Rose Griffith of Wheeling, W. Va., was bruised about the hips, and Attorney M. J. Williams, of 887 Lexington avenue, Avondale received contusions about the face and knees. These passengers and Engineer Higgins, Fireman Tipton and Conductor Spence were transferred to another train.

PRES. ROOSEVELT WILL TELL CALIFORNIANS THAT LOCAL PREJUDICE MAY CAUSE WAR

It is Believed That the Japanese War Office Has

NAVAL OFFICERS THERE ARE FRANKLY ANXIOUS

Enough Japanese in Hawaii to Cause Grave Situation, Even if Fighting as a Mob in Case of War--Regret Expressed by Japanese Statesman.

Manila, Feb. 2.—The acute diplomatic situation in Washington over the Japanese school question in San Francisco, is welcome news to the army and navy officers stationed in the Philippines. It is now believed the powers at Washington heeded warnings that had been forwarded of Japanese activities in the archipelago. That the Japanese war office has agents in the Philippines is undoubted here. It is known that a large measure of Japanese success in Manchuria was due to the operations of secret agents in Korea, Manchuria and even in Siberia in the period preceding active hostilities. Missionary work of this character, it is believed in military quarters, has been conducted throughout the islands during the past year by Japanese agents. The Japanese watchword has been "Asia for Asiatics," and many influential natives are believed to have been won over to friendship for the "Bosses of the East." American officers have kept the war department informed of the situation and while it is not believed that there is any evidence of seditious movements, the general staff at Washington has a mass of military intelligence, sent in confidential letters that may account for the recent anxiety in administration circles.

Naval officers stationed at Cavite are frankly anxious. Four armored cruisers comprise the only fighting strength at the Asiatic station.

The question is local and unendorsed by the American public, and this is confirmed by President Roosevelt's message which is the greatest utterance since the farewell of Washington."

MEXICAN HANGED FOR DOUBLE CRIME

Karnes City, Tex., Feb. 2.—Ramon Campoe, a Mexican double murderer, was hanged here. The crime was the murder of two sisters named McHaney in March of last year. SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Washington, Feb. 2.—When the San Francisco school question in San Francisco, is welcome news to the army and navy officers stationed in the Philippines. It is now believed the powers at Washington heeded warnings that had been forwarded of Japanese activities in the archipelago. That the Japanese war office has agents in the Philippines is undoubted here. State of Trade.

New York, Feb. 2.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: Although the average of 60 of the most active railway securities fell this week to the lowest point since 1904, there was no corresponding reaction in commercial activity, which continued beyond precedent. Reports from leading manufacturing centers indicate that scarcely any idle machinery can be found, the preparations for future trade evidencing a confidence in well-maintained consumption. Forward business is most extensive in the iron and steel manufacture and the cotton industry, but other prominent producers have liberal contracts on hand also, and the mercantile outlook is bright. Wholesale houses receive large contracts for spring delivery, especially in dry goods lines, and the settled winter weather has produced a wholesale reduction in retail stocks of heavy weight wearing apparel and other seasonable merchandise.

AN EXECUTION IN INDIA.

The Way a Man Guilty of Murder Underwent Decapitation.

A letter from India to a German paper gives this account of the execution near Bombay of a man who had been found guilty of the murder of his brother-in-law: "The question as to whether the culprit should be executed or sent to prison for life was, as is the custom, submitted to the family of the murdered man for decision. All, including the wife of the murdered, voted for death. When the place of execution was reached the condemned man knelt, and the ropes which were fastened to him were handed over to the executioner's assistants. The one who held the neck rope took a few steps before the kneeling man and the other two stood at either side. Then the executioner, armed with a razor edged, heavy knife, advanced and asked in a loud voice, 'Who authorizes the execution?' and the chief of police answered, 'The law.' The question was asked and answered three times, while the armed man advanced, slowly swinging the mighty blade. As the last answer was heard an assistant executioner thrust a needle point into the kneeling man's back and he made an involuntary motion forward with his head. The three assistants moved taut, leaving the man extended to the utmost. At the same instant the knife whirled through the air and the head of the murderer rolled in the sand."

LIVE LIKE A KING.

It's Not a Difficult Matter in a Modern New York Hotel.

No crowned head ever pilloved itself for a night's lodging with the satisfaction of knowing that under the same roof there were a thousand persons paid to look after its safety, comfort and luxury, unless that crowned head found itself in a modern New York hotel, where a regiment of "help" is employed, consisting of clerks, chefs, pastry cooks, meat cooks, bakery men, soup cooks, detectives, watchmen, engineers, electricians, plumbers, carpenters, laundrymen, doormen, porters, butlers, waiters, stewards, wine and cigar experts, decorators, messengers, waiting maids and chambermaids.

Any person with $4 in his pockets can have the advantages of this regimental array of servants for one day by paying the price of a room at any of the greater hotels recently constructed in the metropolis, though, of course, $4 is the lowest figure. Many of the rooms cost double that sum a day, and some of the state apartments, with bedrooms, gorgeous parlor, private dining room and bath, are not let for less than $100 or $125 a day. Even the four dollar rooms have baths, but the price of room or apartment does not include meals.—Rensen Crawford in Success.

BEECHER'S ONLY POEM.

The Verses Were Always Kept Sacred by Mrs. Beecher.

It was related by Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher that during their courtship Mr. Beecher once "dropped into poetry" and wrote a few lines of verse teeming with affection for his sweetheart. But the verses were always kept sacred by Mrs. Beecher, and nothing could win them from her. One day Mr. and Mrs. Beecher were in the office of Robert Bonner, the publisher.

"Why don't you write a poem, Beecher?" said Mr. Bonner.

"He did once," said Mrs. Beecher. "Recite it for me, won't you, Mrs. Beecher?"

But the eyes of the great preacher were riveted on his wife, and she knew that he meant silence.

"Come," said Mr. Bonner, "I'll give you $5,000 if you will recite that poem to me," addressing Mrs. Beecher.

"Why, it ran"—quickly said Mrs. Beecher.

"Eunice!" simply said Mr. Beecher. And, although Robert Bonner afterward offered to double the sum first offered, he never got the poem from Mrs. Beecher. It had been hidden away by Mrs. Beecher and cherished as one of the dearest treasures her husband left her.

Persian Rugs.

"Antique Persian rugs," said the rug salesman, "are dyed with vegetable dyes; the new ones are dyed with aniline dyes. There's a great difference. Vegetable dyes are fifty or sixty times more expensive than anilines, and they give a color that is literally imperishable, a color that keeps growing richer and richer till the rug falls to pieces. Anilines, made out of coal tar, look well enough at first, but they fade. When a vegetable red or blue would be at its best an aniline red or blue would be nearly white. We civilized people harmed the Chinese by introducing our cheap opium among them, and now we have equally harmed the Persian rug by introducing our cheap anilines among the rug weavers."

The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is acid, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other depressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Tablets or Liquid. See what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

THE QUESTION OF LIFE.

Man's Progress and the Books of the Eighteenth Century.

In what mankind called "progress" the world was led by illusion, advanced by lies. Everybody hated work, which was the only health. Even the preacher spoke dolefully of "the curse of Adam." Everybody wanted to be rich, which meant unhappiness; everybody wanted to be idle, which meant death. Change was regarded as progress, and to find one different from oneself was to find one worse than oneself. And with all these I sympathized, knowing them to be wrong.

I had listened to moralists and before all was done discerned that a question of morals was a question of attitudes, and vice related to the equator. Cruelty was a creature of the thermometer; the tropics tortured what the arctic nursed. Happiness was born of contrast when it wasn't born of temperament, and Third Avenue laughed oftener than Fifth. One man committed suicide, another gave a feast. Each was worth $20,000. The suicide had been a millionaire, the feast giver a pauper. I considered merchants and gamblers. There was but one difference—when the merchant's resources ended his credit ended; when the gambler's resources ended his credit began. When the gambler was down his fellow gamblers helped him; when the merchant was down his fellow merchants fell upon him and tore him like wolves.

Progress? A wise man proved it by pointing to a railroad and asking me to remember stagecoaches. I asked why it was better to travel 900 miles in a day than to travel thirty in a day and night. I replied that one couldn't reach Calcutta in a day and night. He said that medicine and surgery had advanced; that we now saved lives we used to lose. I asked why it was important to save lives that must one day die; also I pointed out that we saved weaklings to wed weaklings and produce weaklings, which was progressing backward. He grew angry and asked if I favored death. I grew angry and asked if he favored birth; also I wanted to hear whether or no he believed in killing weeds.

Progress! I know nothing of medicine and railways and stagecoaches and saving lives, but I do know about books. And I see by my bookcases that the nineteenth century did not write so well nor in things beautiful think so well as did the eighteenth, with the promise all about me that the present century will write worse and think more heavily than either. We have better guns, clocks, plows, sewing machines, but they wrote better English and thought nobler thoughts.—Alfred Henry Lewis in Cosmopolitan.

Friendship With Wild Life.

If a fairy had ever offered to grant me three wishes, "the full confidence of wild animals" would surely have been one of them and probably the first. If we seek opportunities to befriend wild creatures and take advantage of them, we shall often find, as I have done, that there is no lack of response on the part of the animals. I once walked up to a pine skink, as he was feeding on the ground and picked him up in my hand. He did not seem a bit alarmed, and when a few minutes later I set him down he continued his search for food within a few inches of my feet. On another occasion a yellow throated vireo allowed me to lift her from her nest when I wished to count her eggs and nestled down comfortably on her treasures the moment I put her back. With a forefinger I once stroked the back of a red breasted nuthatch as he was busy feeding on a tree.—Ernest Harold Baynes in St. Nicholas.

BACK GIVES OUT

Plenty of Newark Readers Have This Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them—

They can't keep up the continual strain.

The back gives out—it aches and pains;

Urinary troubles set in.

Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

Newark people tell you how they act.

M. B. Melick, driver, of 54 West Church street, Newark, O., says:

"For a long time I was suffering from a constant sickening pain in the small of the back and in the hips. Any quick movement was followed by sharp darting twinges that caught me suddenly and almost doubled me up. I suffered so from pains through the hips that at times I was almost laid up. Liniments and hop applications had little effect on it and I began using various medicines recommended for such troubles. I had little success until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Crayton's drug store. It was the only remedy that really found the right spot. It banished my troubles in time, and I have had no return of any symptom of kidney complaint since using it."

MANY OUT-OF-TOWN PEOPLE WILL HEAR JUDGE BEN LINDSEY

From present indications, the address of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the Juvenile court judge of Denver, will be largely attended. It is believed that there will be a bigger crowd out to this lecture than has ever turned out to hear a popular address.

Mrs. Mary A. Swan, under whose supervision the lecture is being given has been busy for the past two weeks sending out invitations to those who are expected to come from out of town. Many answers have already been received from Columbus, Zanesville and Mansfield, some accepting the invitations and a few sending regrets.

It is planned to have the chiefs of police from these cities as well as the sheriffs from the counties which the towns represent.

Judges and mayors, lawyers and ministers and people from nearly every walk of life will assemble to hear Judge Lindsey. There is every indication that the lecture will be a great success.

A CAROLINA LEGISLATOR.

Hon. Wm. G. Hunter Uses Pe-ru-na As a Family Medicine.

WHEN a man of undoubted reputation comes out squarely in public print, giving unqualified endorsement to a household remedy there must be something genuine to account for it.

Hon. W. G. Hunter, of North Carolina, well-known in Washington and throughout the Southern States, says of Peruna that he regards it as the greatest family medicine ever discovered.

He does not hesitate to say that Peruna invigorates and gives fresh strength to mind and body.

Such testimonials as this ought to make Peruna popular.

No advertising known to the arts of man, no commercial management could ever raise Peruna to such a high standard of appreciation as the frank and unqualified statements of such men.

PE-RU-NA
A Reliable Remedy
For Colds.

Peruna is an ideal household remedy. It wards off colds and relieves catarrh in all its forms and phases.

By ridding the system of catarrh, it cleanses the body of those conditions which invite chronic diseases.

Cold Affected Head, Throat and Lungs.

Mr. Matthew O'Hare, 145 William St., Fall River, Mass., writes:

"About four years ago I consulted a physician to get relief from a cold which had stopped up my head and also settled on my lungs, resulting in catarrh and also throat difficulties.

"He gave me some medicine, but four months faithful use of the same did me no good. I then tried other doctors, but it was just the same.

"So I decided to try Peruna and after using two bottles my lungs began to heal, I did not cough nearly so much and slept better.

"In six months the cough, catarrh and throat difficulties were all cured.

"I was pleased with the result and wish to write you of it. Seven bottles of Peruna cured me."

A. L. Hewitt, J. P., West Berlin, Vt., writes: "I am happy to be able to write you this letter in relation to what your Peruna has done for my family.

"When I brought the first bottle home, I found my wife and daughter both sick—my wife with indigestion and my daughter with a severe cold. They were both cured.

"I am willing to state that Peruna, taken in the beginning, will cure the worst cold in 24 to 36 hours."

Mr. G. W. Taylor, Clendenin, W. Va., writes:

"I think that Peruna is the greatest tonic that was ever put on the market. For several years my eyes bothered me so much. The pain was so severe sometimes I would think they would surely burst out of my head.

"I tried Peruna and Manalin and to-day a well man. am sure I should have died had it not been for Dr. Hartman's wonderful medicine, Peruna."

Such testimony as the above has given Peruna a high standard in the estimation of the public.

HON. WM. G. HUNTER.

Cough, Colds, Catarrh Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

Hon. Wm. G. Hunter, ex-member North Carolina Legislature, writes from the Census Office Building, Washington, D. C., concerning Peruna:

"The greatest family medicine ever discovered, in my opinion, which comes from experience as well as observation, is Peruna. The most common affliction to human-kind is a bad cold. Peruna drives it out of doors, wards off catarrh, invigorates and gives fresh strength to mind and body. I give Peruna my unqualified endorsement."

The Temptation of Samuel Burge

By W. W. JACOBS

Copyright, 1905, by William W. Jacobs

MR. HIGGS, jeweler, sat in the small parlor behind his shop gazing hungrily at a supper table which had been laid some time before. It was a quarter to 10 by the small town clock on the mantelpiece, and the jeweler, rubbing his hands over the fire, tried in vain to remember what etiquette had to say about starting a meal before the arrival of an expected guest.

"He must be coming by the last train after six," said the housekeeper, entering the room and glancing at the clock. "I suppose these London gentlemen keep such late hours they don't understand us country folk wanting to get to bed in decent time. You must be wanting your supper, sir."

Mr. Higgs sighed. "I shall be glad of my supper," he said slowly, "but I dare say our friend is hungrier still. Traveling is hungry work."

"Perhaps he is thinking over his words for the seventh day," said the housekeeper solemnly, "forgetting hunger and thirst and all our poor earthly feelings in the blessedness of his work."

"Perhaps so," assented the other, whose own earthly feelings were particularly strong just at that moment. "Brother Simpson used to forget all about mealtimes when he stayed here," said the housekeeper, clasping her hands. "He used to sit by the window with his eyes half closed and shake his head at the smell from the kitchen and call it fleshpots of Egypt. He said that if it wasn't for keeping up his strength for the work luscious bread and fair water was all he wanted. I expect Brother Burge will be a similar sort of man."

"Brother Clark wrote and told me that he only lives for the work," said the jeweler, with another glance at the clock. "The chapel at Clerkenwell is crowded to hear him. It's a blessed favor and privilege to have such a selected instrument staying in the house. I'm curious to see him. From what Brother Clark said I rather fancy that he was a little bit wild in his younger days."

"Halleluiah!" exclaimed the housekeeper with fervor. "I mean to think as he's seen the error of his ways," she added sharply as her master looked up. "There he is," said the latter as the bell rang.

The housekeeper went to the side door and, drawing back the bolt, admitted the gentleman whose preaching had done so much for the small but select sect known as the Seventh Day Primitive Apostles. She came back into the room, followed by a tall stout man, whose upper lip and short stubby beard streaked with gray seemed a poor match for the beady eyes which lurked behind a pair of clumsy spectacles.

"Brother Samuel Burge?" inquired the jeweler, rising.

The visitor nodded and, regarding him with a smile charged with fraternal love, took his hand in a huge grip and shook it fervently.

"I am glad to see you, Brother Higgs," he said, regarding him fondly.

two Salvationists, one digamist and a Roman Catholic.

Brother Higgs murmured his admiration. "You are also a power for good," he said wistfully. "Brother Clark tells me in his letter that your exhortations have been abundantly blessed."

Mr. Burge shook his head. "A lot of it falls by the wayside," he said modestly, "but some of it is an eye opener to them as don't entirely shut their ears. Only the day before yesterday I had two jeannies and a dark lantern sent me with a letter saying as 'ow the owner had no further use for 'em.'"

The jeweler's eyes glistened with admiration not quite untinged with envy. "Have you expounded the word for long?" he inquired.

"Six months," replied the other. "It came to me quite natural. I was on the penitential bench on the Saturday, and the Wednesday afterward I preached as good a sermon as ever I've preached in my life. Brother Clark said it took 's breath away."

"And he's a judge, too," said the admiring jeweler.

"Now," continued Brother Burge, helping himself plentifully to pickled walnuts—"now there ain't standing room in our Bethel when I'm expounding. People come to hear me from all parts, old and young, rich and poor, and the Apostles that don't come early 'ave to stand outside and catch the crumbs I throw 'em through the windows."

"It is enough," sighed Brother Higgs, whose own audience was frequently content to be on the wrong side of the window, "it is enough to make a man vain."

"I struggle against it, brother," said Mr. Burge, passing his cup up for some more tea. "I fight against it hard, but once the evil one was almost too much for me, and in spite of myself and knowing besides that it was a plot of 'is I nearly left unpuffed."

Brother Higgs, passing him some more beef, pressed for details.

"He sent me two policemen," replied the other, scowling at the meanness of the trick. "One I might 'ave stood, but two come to being pretty near too much for me. They sat under me while I gave 'em the word 'ot and strong, and the feeling I had standing up there and telling policemen what they ought to do I shall never forget."

"But why should policemen make you proud?" asked his puzzled listener.

Mr. Burge looked puzzled in his turn. "Why, hasn't Brother Clark told you about me?" he inquired.

Mr. Higgs shook his head. "He sort of suggested that—that you had been a little bit wild before you came to us," he murmured apologetically.

"A little bit—wild?" repeated Brother Burge, in horrified accents. "Me? A little bit wild?"

"No doubt he exaggerated a little," said the jeweler hurriedly. "Being such a good man himself, no doubt things would seem wild to him that wouldn't to us—to me, I mean."

"A little bit wild," said his visitor again. "Sam Burge, the converted burglar, a little bit wild. Well, well!"

"Converted what?" shouted the jeweler, half rising from his chair.

"Burglar," said the other shortly. "Why, I should think I know more about the inside o' jails than anybody in England. I've pretty near killed three policemen, besides breaking a gent's leg and throwing a footman out of window, and then Brother Clark goes and says I've been a little bit wild! I wonder what he would 'ave?"

"But you—you're quite reformed now," said the jeweler, resuming his seat and making a great effort to hide his consternation.

"I 'ope so," said Mr. Burge, with alarming humility. "But it's an uncertain world, and far be it from me to boast. That's why I've come here."

Mr. Higgs, only half comprehending, sat back gasping.

"If I can stand this," pursued Brother Burge, gesticulating wildly in the direction of the shop, "if I can stand being here with all these 'ere pretty little things to be 'ad for the trouble of picking of 'em up, I can stand anything. 'Tempt me,' I says to Brother Clark. 'Put me in the way o' temptation,' I says. 'Let me see whether the evil one or me is the strongest, let me 'ave a good old up and down with the powers o' darkness and see who wins.'"

Mr. Higgs, gripping the edge of the table with both hands, gazed at this new Michael in speechless consternation.

"I think I see his face now," said Brother Burge with tender enthusiasm. "All in a glow it was, and he patted me on the shoulder and says, 'I'll send you on a week's mission to Duncombe.'" he says, and 'you shall stop with Brother Higgs, who 'as a shop full o' cunning wrought vanities in silver and gold.'"

"But suppose," said the jeweler, finding his voice by a great effort, "suppose victory is not given unto you?"

"It won't make any difference," replied his visitor. "Brother Clark promised that it shouldn't. 'If you fall, brother,' he says, 'we'll help you up again. When you are tired of sin come back to us. There's always a welcome.'"

"We can only do our best," said Brother Burge; "the rest we must leave I 'ave gived my loins for the fray and taken much spiritual sustenance on the way down from this lit fle hymn book."

Mr. Higgs paid no heed. He sat marveling over the fatuousness of Brother Clark and trying to think of ways and means out of the dilemma into which that gentleman's perverted enthusiasm had placed him. He wondered whether it would be possible to induce Brother Burge to sleep elsewhere by offering to bear his hotel expenses, and at last, after some hesi-

"Brother Samuel Burge?" inquired the jeweler, rising.

"Oh, 'ow my eyes have yearned to be set upon you! Oh, 'ow my ears 'ave longed to hearken unto the words of your voice!"

He leant back thickly and, taking a seat with his hands upon his knees, looked at a fine piece of cold beef which the housekeeper had just placed upon the table.

"Is Brother Clark well?" inquired the jeweler, placing a chair for him at the table and taking up his carving knife.

"Dear Brother Clark is in excellent health, I thank you," said the other, taking the proffered chair. "Oh, what a man he is! What a instrument for good—always stretching out them blessed hands of 'is to make one of the fallen o' Seventh Day Primitive."

"And success attends his efforts?" said the jeweler.

"Success, brother?" repeated Mr. Burge, eating rapidly and gesticulating with his knife. "Success ain't no weak for it. Why, since this day last week he has saved three pickpockets, Oceola Club Dances.

The Oceola club which was recently organized and a notice of which appeared in this paper, has given two dances at Shamp's Hall on East Main street, both of which were very well attended and were conducted in such a manner that all present and speaking for myself enjoyed a good sociable evening. These dances, I believe, are conducted strictly on the invitation plan, and so far have been patronized by a very good class of people.

I understand that the club gives dances every Thursday evening and I am sure that any one receiving an invitation and attending will enjoy a pleasant evening. A VISITOR.

"Book of Mormon" has been proved to be a literary plagiarism, being a free paraphrase of a romance written by the Rev. Solomon Spalding in 1816, the manuscript of which came into the possession of Joseph Smith, and he, sitting before a curtain, dictated it to Oliver Cowdery, who, seated out of sight of the reader, wrote the matter as it was given to him. Smith pretended that the book was discovered to him by revelation and dug up from the side of a hill not far from Palmyra, in the county of Ontario, N. Y. The claim was made by Smith that the writing on the plates was engraved in "reformed Egyptian," which he was unable to read intelligible spectacles, which he called his Urim and Thummim, were given to him, enabling him both to read and translate into English. The spectacles and the metal plates have disappeared, and the story of the dictation makes tolerably clear the manner in which the "Book of Mormon" had its origin.

Modern Woodmen.

Cedar Camp No. 4727 M. W. of A. met in regular session on Monday night with a good turn out of the members. One stranger was found in waiting, who was adopted as a beneficial member.

The committee appointed at the last meeting to devise some plan to increase the interest and membership of Cedar Camp reported that for every new beneficial member secured the member securing same would be given a ticket to a banquet and the new member secured would also be given a ticket. The plan is to increase the beneficial membership to the 1200 mark and as several camps have a desire to take the state banner from Cedar Camp, every member is requested to make an effort to secure at least one beneficial member, or if we don't look out some camp will step in and carry off the banner. The clerk was instructed to post up in his office a list of the new members, also the name of the member securing same.

A new general relief committee was appointed at the last meeting consisting of Consul J. M. Lambert, Advisor A. S. Mitchell, Banker H. O. Crammer and Clerk E. C. Richardson, and when the attention of the general relief committee is required, call up the clerk's office, where there are both phones, and the case will be reported.

Remember Neighbors that the membership getting contest is open and if you want to be in on this banquet, you want to start early and bring in your candidates. At the next regular meeting on Monday evening a good attendance of the members is desired as there will be candidates to be shown through the forest.

Red Men.

Make a special effort to stop the suspensions for non payment of dues. It is beyond doubt that many men drop out of the order because they think no one cares whether they stay in or not. Put a stop to this. Let your delinquent brothers know that you desire to retain their membership. If the first committee to interview them does not succeed in securing reinstatement send a second committee during the next seven suns, and then a third committee, and a fourth if need be. If you will do this your tribe will be greatly benefited. It is surely of as great importance to keep an old member as it is to get a new one; even of more importance, as it does not speak well for the tribe.

Baby Mine

Every mother feels a great dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of misery. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Venice.

In my dreams I long for Venice
And the blissful gondoliers,
For the very sight of rubied sun,
On a snow-white sail at pier!
For the lap of dreamy waters
That are rocked by fairy wand,
At a mermaid's beck from golden sea
In the sunset glow beyond!
In the dusk is muffled ring of glory,
And the ghosts of Tasso's day
Are abroad in twilight's purple mist
To disport themselves at play!
'Twas a thousand years in building,
Then the same good time to doze,
And all Venice, somnolent lies
Like a breeze-kissed, buxant rose!
And 'tis thus I dream of Venice
In my own romantic way,
Well—no sir, I haven't been there yet
But I hope to go—some day!

The regular meeting of Newark lodge, F. & A. M. was held Thursday night with a good attendance of the members. Considerable business was transacted including the conferring of the Master's degree on one candidate.

The regular meeting of Warren chapter, No. 6, R. A. M. will be held on Monday evening, and it is hoped that as many of the members as possible do so, will be present.

A stated meeting of Bigelow Council, No. 7, R. & S. M., will be held on Wednesday night.

A special meeting of Acme lodge, No. 554, F. & A. M., will be held on next Thursday afternoon, on which occasion there will be work in the Master's degree. The work will begin at 8:30 o'clock and will continue until 8:50, when supper will be served, after which work will be resumed.

American Insurance Union.

Newark Chapter No. 24 A. I. U. met in regular session Thursday evening with a fair attendance considering the inclement weather.

Three applications were presented and accepted, one candidate was found in waiting and was shown through the mysteries of the order by the gentlemen's degree staff.

The committee on the Valentine social for February 14, reported the sub-committees all appointed. The evening's entertainment will consist of music both vocal and instrumental, literary, an exhibition drill by the combined degree teams of the order, and refreshments. All friends of the order are invited.

John Milbaugh of Moline, Ill., and Volda D. Lane of Cincinnati, O., were reported on the sick list.

Knights and Ladies of Security.

Golden Rod Council No. 442 held its regular meeting Friday night at the hall with a large attendance of members. Twenty-nine applications were received for membership and 18 candidates were received into full membership.

It was decided to extend the time limit for free membership until March 1. At that time it is expected to close the dispensation with a large class of candidates, the work to be followed by a banquet.

Deputy Mackay will remain during the month of February.

Regular meeting next Friday evening, February 8, at which time another large class will be initiated.

Home Guards of America.

The members of Newark Home have decided to celebrate their eighth anniversary by giving a general entertainment. The program will probably consist of a short session of recitations, music, etc., by the young folks, concluding the first part with an address by one of the supreme officers, after which the floor will be cleared for those wishing to take part in the dancing. At the same time the doors of the refreshment hall will be opened and the ladies of the Home will serve all with substantial refreshments. It is expected that visiting homes No. 41, 49, 56 and 152 of Columbus, and No. 25 of Zanesville, will be represented, and we hope to make their visit to Newark Home a (Continued on page 8, 4th col.)

tation, broached the subject. "What?" exclaimed the other, pushing his plate from him and regarding him with great severity. "Go and sleep at a hotel! After Brother Clark has been and took all this trouble? Why, I wouldn't think of doing such a thing."

"Brother Clark has no right to expose you to such a trial," said Mr. Higgs with great warmth. "I wonder what he'd say if he heard you," remarked Mr. Burge sternly. "After his going and making all these arrangements, for you to try and upset 'em. To ask me to shun the light like a coward; to ask me to go and hide in the rear ranks in a hotel with everything locked up, with nothing to steal."

"I should sleep far more comfortably if I knew that you were not undergoing this tremendous strain," said the unhappy Mr. Higgs, "and besides that, if you did give way it would be a serious business for me, that's what I want you to look at. I am afraid that if I unhappily you did fall I couldn't prevent you."

"I'm sure you couldn't," said the other cordially. "That's the beauty of it; that's when the evil ones' whispers get louder and louder. Why, I could choke you between my finger and thumb. If unfortunately my fallen nature should be too strong for me, don't interfere whatever you do. I might be myself."

Mr. Higgs rose and faced him gasping. "Not even call for the police, I suppose," he jerked out.

"That would be interfering," said Brother Burge coldly.

The jeweler tried to think. It was past 11. The housekeeper had gone to spend the night with an ailing sister and a furtive glance at Brother Burge's small shifty eyes and fat unwholesome face was sufficient to deter him from leaving him alone with his property, while he went to ask the police to give an eye to his house for the night. Besides it was more than probable that Mr. Burge would decline to allow such a proceeding. With a growing sense of his peril he resolved to try flattery.

"It was a great thing for the brethren to secure a man like you," he said. "I never thought they'd had done it," said Mr. Burge frankly. "I've had all sorts trying to convert me, crying over me and praying over me. I remember the first dear good man that called me a lost lamb. He didn't say anything else for a month."

"So upset," hazarded the jeweler. "I broke his jaw, pore feller," said Brother Burge, a sad but withal indulgent smile lighting up his face at the vagaries of his former career. "What time do you go to bed, brother?"

"Any time," said the other reluctantly. "I suppose you are tired with your journey?"

Mr. Burge assented and, rising from his chair, yawned loudly and stretched himself. In the small room with his huge arms raised he looked colossal.

"I suppose," said the jeweler, still seeking to reassure himself; "I suppose dear Brother Clark felt pretty certain of you, else he wouldn't have sent you here?"

"Brother Clark said, 'What is a jeweler's shop compared with a 'human soul, a priceless 'human soul'?" replied Mr. Burge. "What is a few gewgaws to decorate them that perish and make them vain when you come to consider the opportunity of such a trial and the good it'll do and the draw it'll be—if I do win—and testify to the congregation to that effect? Why, there's sermons for a lifetime in it."

"So there is," said the jeweler, trying to look cheerful. "You've got a good face, Brother Burge, and you'll do a lot of good by your preaching. There is honesty written in every feature."

Mr. Burge turned and surveyed himself in the small pier glass. "Yes," he said, somewhat discontentedly, "I don't look enough like a burglar to suit some of 'em."

"Some people are hard to please," said the other warmly.

Mr. Burge started and eyed him thoughtfully, and then as Mr. Higgs, after some hesitation, walked into the doorway watching him. A smothered sigh as he glanced round the shop bore witness to the state of his feelings.

The jeweler hesitated again in the parlor and then handing Brother Burge his candle turned out the gas and led the way slowly upstairs to the room which had been prepared for the honored visitor. He shook hands at the door and bade him an effusive good night, his voice trembling despite himself as he expressed a hope that Mr. Burge would sleep well. He added casually that he himself was a very light sleeper.

Tonight sleep of any kind was impossible. He had given up the front room to his guest, and his own window looked out on an overgrown garden. He sat trying to read, with his ears alert for the slightest sound. Brother Burge seemed to be a long time undressing. For half an hour after he had retired he could hear him moving restlessly about his room.

Twelve o'clock struck from the tower of the parish church and was followed almost directly by the all clock standing in the hall doors. Scarcely had the sounds died away than a low moaning from the next room caused the affrighted jeweler to start from his chair and place his ear against the wall. Two or three hollow groans came through the plaster, followed by ejaculations which showed clearly that Brother Burge was at that moment engaged in a terrific combat with the powers of darkness to decide whether he should or should not rife his host's shop. His hands clinched and his ear pressed close to the wall, the jeweler listened to a monologue which increased in interest with every word.

"I tell you I won't," said the voice in the next room with a groan. "I won't. Get thee behind me—Get thee—No, and don't shove me over to the door. If you can't get behind me without doing that, stay where you are. Yes, I know it's a fortune as well as what you do, but it ain't mine."

The listener caught his breath painfully.

"Diamond rings," continued Brother Burge in a suffocating voice. "Stop it, I tell you. No, I won't just go and look at 'em."

A series of groans which the jeweler noticed to his horror got weaker and weaker testified to the greatness of the temptation. He heard Brother Burge rise, and then a succession of panting snarls seemed to indicate a fierce bodily encounter.

"I don't want to look at 'em," said Brother Burge in an exhausted voice. "What's the good of looking at 'em? It's like you, you know diamonds are my weakness. What does it matter if he is asleep? What's my knife got to do with 'em?"

Brother Higgs recoiled back and a mist passed before his eyes. He came to himself at the sound of a door opening, and, impelled with a vague idea of defending his property, snatched up his candle and looked out on to the landing.

The light fell on Brother Burge fully dressed and holding his boots in his hand. For a moment they gazed at each other in silence; then the jeweler found his voice.

"I thought you were ill, brother," he faltered.

An ugly cowl lit up the other's features.

"Don't you tell me any of your lies," he said fiercely. "You're watching me, that's what you're doing. Spying on me."

"I thought that you were being tempted," confessed the trembling Mr. Higgs.

An expression of satisfaction which he strove to suppress appeared on Mr. Burge's face.

"So I was," he said sternly. "So I was; but that's my business. I don't want your assistance. I can fight my own battles. You go to bed; I'm going to tell the congregation I won the fight single handed."

"So you have, brother," said the other eagerly; "but it's doing me good to see it. It's a lesson to me; a lesson to all of us the way you wrestled."

"I thought you was asleep," growled Brother Burge, turning back to his room and speaking over his shoulder. "You get back to bed. The fight ain't half over yet. Get back to bed and keep quiet."

The door closed behind him and Mr. Higgs, still trembling, regained his room and looked in agony at the clock. It was only half past 12 and the sun did not rise until 6. He sat and shivered until a second installment of groans in the next room brought him in desperation to his feet.

Brother Burge was in the toils again, and the jeweler despite his fears could not help realizing what a sensation the story of his temptation would create.

Brother Burge was now going round and round his room like an animal in a cage, and sounds as of a soul wrung almost beyond endurance smote upon the listener's quivering ear. Then there was a long silence more alarming even than the noise of the conflict.

Had Brother Burge won and was he now sleeping the sleep of the righteous, or—Mr. Higgs shivered and put his other ear to the wall. Then he heard his guest move stealthily across the floor; the boards creaked and the handle of the door turned.

Mr. Higgs started and with a sudden flash of courage born of anger and desperation seized a small brass poker from the fireplace, and taking the candle in his other hand, went out on to the landing again. Brother Burge was closing his door softly, and his face when he turned it upon the jeweler was terrible in its wrath. His small eyes snapped with fury, and his huge hands opened and shut convulsively.

"What were you going to do with that poker?"

"What, again?" he said in a low growl. "After all I told you!"

Mr. Higgs backed slowly as he advanced.

"No, no," said Mr. Burge in a dreadful whisper. "One scream and I'll—What were you going to do with that poker?"

He took a stealthy step forward.

"I—I," began the jeweler. His voice failed him. "Burglars," he mouthed, "downstairs."

"What?" said the other, pausing. "Mr. Higgs threw truth to the winds. I heard them in the shop," he said, recovering. "That's why I took up the poker. Can't you hear them?"

Mr. Burge listened for the fraction of a second. "Nonsense," he said huskily.

"I heard them talking," said the other recklessly. "Let's go down and call the police."

"Call 'em from the window," said Brother Burge, backing with some haste; "they might 'ave pistols or something, and they're ugly customers when they're disturbed."

He stood, with strained face, listening.

"Here they come," whispered the jeweler, with a sudden movement of alarm.

Brother Burge turned and, bolting into his room, clapped the door to and locked it. The jeweler stood dumfounded on the landing; then he heard the window go up and the voice of Brother Burge, much strengthened by the religion; exercises of the past six months, bellowing lustily for the police.

For a few seconds Mr. Higgs stood listening and wondering what explanation he should give. Still thinking, he ran downstairs and, throwing open the pantry window, unlocked the door leading into the shop and scattered a few of his cherished possessions about the floor. By the time he had done this people were already beating upon the street door and exchanging hurried remarks with Mr. Burge at the window above. The jeweler shot back the bolts, and half a dozen neighbors, headed by the butcher opposite, clad in his nightgown and armed with a cleaver, burst into the passage. A constable came running up just as the pallid face of Brother Burge peered over the balusters. The constable went upstairs three at a time and, twisting his hand in the ex-burglar's neckcloth, bore him backward.

"I've got one," he shouted. "Come up and hold him while I look around." The butcher was beside him in a moment. Brother Burge, struggling wildly, called loudly upon the name of Brother Higgs.

"That's all right, constable," said the latter. "That's a friend of mine." "Friend of yours, sir?" said the disappointed officer, still holding him.

The jeweler nodded. "Mr. Samuel Burge, the converted burglar," he said mechanically.

"Conver?" gasped the astonished constable. "Converted burglar? Here?"

"He is a preacher now," added Mr. Higgs.

"Preacher?" retorted the constable. "Why, it's as plain as a pikestaff. Confounders; his part was to go down and let 'em in."

Mr. Burge raised a piteous cry. "I hope you may be forgiven for them words," he cried piously.

"What time did you go up to bed?" pursued the constable.

"About half past 11," replied Mr. Higgs.

The other grunted with satisfaction. "And he's fully dressed, with his boots off," he remarked. "Did you hear him go out of his room at all?"

"He did go out," said the jeweler truthfully, "but—"

"I thought so," said the constable, turning to his prisoner with affectionate solicitude. "Now you come along of me. Come quietly, because it'll be the best for you in the end."

"You won't get your skull split open then," added the butcher, toying with his cleaver.

The jeweler hesitated. He had no desire to be left alone with Mr. Burge again, and a sense of humor, which many years' association with the Primitive Apostles had not quite eradicated, strove for hearing.

"Think of the sermon I'll make," he said encouragingly to the frantic Mr. Burge. "Think of the congregation."

Brother Burge replied in language which he had not used in public since he had joined the Apostles. The butcher and another man stood guard over him while the constable searched the premises and made all secure again. Then with a final appeal to Mr. Higgs, who was keeping in the background, he was pitched to the police station by the energetic constable and five zealous assistants.

A diffidence, natural in the circumstance, prevented him from narrating the story of his temptation to the magistrates next morning, and Mr. Higgs was equally reticent. He was put back while the police communicated with London, and in the meantime Brother Clark and a band of Apostles flanked down to his support.

On his second appearance before the magistrates he was confronted with his past, and his past, to the great astonishment of the brethren, being free from all blame with the solitary exception of fourteen days for stealing milk cans, he was discharged with a caution. The disillusioned Primitive Apostles also gave him his freedom.

An Answered Prayer.

"I sent my little girl," writes a correspondent, "to the butcher's with 50 cents to buy some steak. She came home 10 cents short in change and was sent back for the missing coin. Presently the butcher's boy called with the dime and explained that his employer had found out his mistake, although they had seen nothing of my little daughter. The time went on, and I felt anxious until I heard her singing merrily in the garden. 'Did you go back to the butchers?' I asked. 'No, mother, it is such a long way, so I asked God to send for the dime. Has it not come yet?'"

Paying honest debts promptly and cheerfully is a virtue of manhood appreciated by every one.—Newark (Ark.) Journal.

Kidney Disease

Nature has given you kidneys to keep your blood clean and pure. As the blood flows through them the waste matter it brings from all over your body is filtered out through millions of little tubes, so small that they can be seen only under a microscope. Unless these tiny tubes are kept open, waste matter accumulates in your blood.

If the blood is chilled in any part of your body, or held back by pressure or injury, uric acid turns into little crystals, resembling sharp grains of fine sand. Over-feeding also may produce so much waste matter that your blood can't keep the uric acid dissolved, and the crystals are formed. Your kidneys cannot pass these crystals—they lodge and collect in the little filtering tubes, where they scratch and irritate the tender fibres, just as grains of sand would do in your eye. This irritation causes the pain in your back which warns you of kidney disease, Bright's Disease and death.

At the very first sign of kidney disease, you must take LIFE PLANT. LIFE PLANT has the power of dissolving the hard uric acid grains, being provided by Nature for just that purpose. You will feel relief from the first, and in a short time LIFE PLANT will have gently washed every trace of uric acid out of your kidneys (or wherever else it may exist) and give the organ back its blood-purifying powers. Thousands have saved themselves by taking LIFE PLANT. Read what Mr. John Lennon, of Wadsworth, Ohio, says:

"In regard to your medicine, I think it can't be beat in the world. Once I was so bad that I could not walk. I took one bottle and can say that I feel all right. My kidneys troubled me and I was dizzy in my head. That has about all left me. I think one more bottle will fix me all right. I can't say too much for Life Plant."

If you have any trouble whatever, write your symptoms to I. J. Mizer, M. D., President of the Life Plant Co., who will send you his personal advice, free. Our book—GOOD HEALTH—mailed to anyone free on request.

MT. VERNON POLO PLAYERS WILL HELP NEWARK

MCCARTHY AND FARMER, TWO PROFESSIONALS WILL PLAY AGAINST COSHOCTON.

Big Crowd Looked for and Game Will Be Fastest This Season. Called at 9.

Newark polo enthusiasts will have an opportunity tonight to see a real polo game. The Newark management has made arrangements with two Mt. Vernon players, professionals in the game of polo, whereby the local team tonight will be strengthened to such an extent that Coshocton will not have a look in.

Now, the village of Coshocton is some pumpkins in the polo game, in fact they are so many pumpkins that Newark has gotten the worst end of the majority of the games played.

Tonight the story will be different. Ralph McCarthy, of Mt. Vernon, a professional rush, and a man named Farmer, also of Mt. Vernon, have been secured to play in tonight's game. Both men are strong. Local polo fans know McCarthy. Farmer has played on an Indiana team and is said to be the goods.

The Newark team will line up with McCarthy as first rush, Smart second rush, Heath center, Farmer halfback and Switzer goal. This will make the strongest team ever lined up on the local floor.

Tonight's game will be called at 9 o'clock sharp, instead of 8:30 as heretofore. This will give a large number of people an opportunity to attend the game, who would otherwise be unable to get to the rink in time to see the start.

As the game will be the hottest contest of the season, a big crowd is looked for and the management has made arrangements to accommodate an unusually large number of spectators.

Baker Goes to Zanesville.

Dan W. Baker, who for nearly a year has had charge of the Music Hall alleys, has severed his connection with the firm of Graef Brothers and will go to Zanesville Sunday, where he will take charge of the Brunswick alleys on North Seventh street. Mr. Baker has many friends among the Newark bowlers who will regret to see him go.

Since coming to Newark Mr. Baker has superintended the improvements on the Music Hall alleys and now this is probably the most popular retreat for alley enthusiasts in the city. Mr. Baker has been a prominent figure in the city bowling league and under his guiding hand the venture has been a big success.

Returns Not All In.

The Flicker Club trekked to Zanesville Friday night for a game with a bunch from Mogul town and although the returns are not all in yet, it is understood that the Clay City pin artists defeated the local boys badly that even the Zanesville bugs were ashamed to do it. At a late hour on Saturday, some of the "returns" were not in from Zanesville, but were being anxiously awaited by members of the team.

CHAMPION LIAR OR PEDESTRIAN

APPLIED TO TURNKEY ATHERTON FOR LODGING FRIDAY NIGHT.

Five Boys Arrested for Larceny from the Heisey Factory—Police Court News.

A long, lank, lean individual stopped at the city prison last night and asked Station House Keeper Atherton for a night's lodging. The man was put through the usual catechism regarding his place of residence, his destination, etc., and gave out the startling information that he had walked from Wheeling since six o'clock Friday morning.

Now Wheeling is something like 106 miles from Newark and in spite of the fact that the man's legs joined his body not far from the collar bone Atherton could not swallow the story and said:

"You're either the champion liar or the champion walker, and for my part I think you're the former."

The long shanked brother from Wheeling insisted that he was telling the truth but even the station keeper's doubts did not prevent him from giving the stranger a bed.

Five lads, whose ages range from 15 to 18 years, faced Mayor McCleery Saturday morning on a charge of petit larceny. The affidavit for their arrest was filed by Wilson Heisey of the Heisey Glass company, and it is charged that the boys entered the factory on the 16th of January and carried away five candelabras valued at over $20.

William Marple, Phil Smoots, Paul Rouse, Leo Frazier and Edward Berkshire, the young offenders, when arraigned before the mayor, all pleaded guilty. Marple and Smoots, each over 18 years, were fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in jail. Rouse and Frazier, 15 years, and Berkshire, 16 years, were sent to the juvenile court where their cases will receive consideration.

John Cavey of Cumberland, Md., a young man not yet out of his teens, was locked up last night on a drunk charge. He told the Mayor that he was trying to get back to Cumberland where his mother was ill. He stated that his father was a railroad man, and that he was killed a year ago. This broke up the lad's home and he struck out for himself. He has been roaming around the country since that time and a day or two ago got word that his mother was ill. He is working his way to Cumberland. The case was dismissed.

Jackson Werts of near Highwater, was one of the unfortunates who who faced the mayor Saturday morning. He was found on the streets last night pretty well soaked outwardly as well as inwardly. He drew a fine of $5 and costs and requested the mayor not to let his daughter's name be connected in any way with his arrest. Werts kicked because the papers mentioned the fact that Eva Werts was his daughter when he was arrested a month or so ago.

HURTS SALE OF MEDICINES

SIMPLE PRESCRIPTION WHICH RELIEVES EVERY PERSON WHO TRIES IT.

Makes the Kidneys Act and Overcomes Terrible Cases of Rheumatism and Bladder Troubles.

To make up enough of the "vegetable treatment," which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore weak bladder and rheumatism: get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties almost instantly. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

A well known local druggist, who is in a position to know, asserts that this prescription, wherever it becomes known, always ruins the sale of the numerous patent medicine rheumatism cures, kidney cures, etc. It is a prescription which the majority of patent manufacturers and even certain physicians dislike to see published. Few cases, indeed, which will fail to fully yield to its peculiarly soothing and healing influence. Being composed of common everyday vegetable ingredients, which can be gotten from any druggist, it makes up a good, honest and harmless remedy and at small cost.

It Pays to Be Cheerful.

The spirit of cheerfulness is sometimes the result of a happy temperament whose nerves have never been disturbed by loss, sickness or calamity. Sometimes it is the abundance of youth still finding a surplus of vigor after the toils of the day. Sometimes it is the expression of character which from the reserves of its own nature and experience is able to preserve a cheerful disposition under even the most discouraging circumstances and face life always with hope and good cheer. Such a character is a strength and a defense not only to him who has it, but to all his associates and to all who feel his influence. They are the watch-towers of humanity, whose lights shine through the dark night of human struggle and whose word is an inspiration of hope and encouragement.

Color and Light.

The peculiar simplicity of the country daisy in the south is illustrated by a story told by a congressman.

An old negro had gone to a post-office in Mississippi and offered for the mail a letter that was over the weight specified for a single stamp.

"This is too heavy," said the postmaster. "You will have to put another stamp on it."

The old daisy's eyes widened in astonishment. "Will another stamp make it any lighter, boss?" he asked.—Harper's Weekly.

Conspicuous.

The minister had preached to the graduating class of a girls' college. The girls of the class were on the platform all round the pulpit and all dressed in white.

"I felt," confessed the preacher to his wife when he got home, "like a crow on a snowdrift."

Life, to be worthy of a rational being, must be always in progression. We must always purpose to do more or better than in time past.—Johnson.

The Charming Woman

Is not necessarily one of perfect form and feature. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. Paying Teller of a Lancaster Bank Is Placed Under Arrest.

ACCUSED IS A CITY OFFICIAL

Corporation Held Liable For Damages In a Suit Brought by Discharged Employee—Columbus Broker's Sudden Death—Alleged Illegal Fees in Lucas—Sheriff in a Wreck.

Lancaster, O., Feb. 2.—Harry Smith, paying teller of the Rocking Valley National bank, city treasurer, and one of the managers and practically owner of the Lancaster ball club, is under arrest at his home here, charged with appropriating $5,395 of the bank's funds. The bank officials say that Smith's peculations, which cover a period of six months, will amount to about $12,000. It is not believed that any of the city funds were taken. A hasty examination of the accounts of the city and school funds show them to be straight. Smith has been absent from the bank for the past 10 days, confined to his home by illness.

Smith has been very popular with all classes of people. He was elected city treasurer at the last municipal election by a large majority, notwithstanding the majority he had to overcome. Not only in politics has he been a favorite, but he has kept baseball going here since the Ohio and Pennsylvania league sprung up and even several years before. He is the sole owner of the team, and this may be death to the national game in Lancaster the coming season. In society he and his estimable wife and daughter have been leaders.

Influenced Discharge of Employee. Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—Because it influenced the discharge of Robert Summers from the employ of the Meahan Boiler and Construction company of Youngstown, O., the Columbus Iron and Steel company was held liable for $2,000 damages to Summers by a jury in the common pleas court. Summers had been employed by the Columbus Iron and Steel company previous to his employment by the Meahan company, and was alleged to have been concerned in a strike at the former's plant. When he was employed by the Meahan company he was sent to Columbus to work on a building being erected for the Columbus Steel company, when the latter company, it was charged, influenced the Meahan company to dismiss him. The case will be appealed.

Cox Tenders Resignation. Cincinnati, O., Feb. 2.—The Rev. George Clark Cox, rector of Calvary church, Clifton, of this city, tendered his resignation to his vestry at a meeting of that body, by which it was unanimously accepted. The action on the part of the Rev. Cox was due to the recent letter of Bishop Boyd Vincent, in which the latter condemns the utterances of Rev. Cox as heretical and strongly disapproves of the action of the standing committee in not holding the noted clergyman for trial.

Alleged Illegal Fees. Toledo, O., Feb. 2.—C. B. Hadden and A. T. Goorley, appointed to examine the Lucas county commissioners' report, announced that Sheriff S. B. Chambers charged unwarranted fees of $2,338.47; that the fees of the former counsel for the treasurer and auditor in the suits against the city were out of all proportion to the services rendered; that the employment of Tax Inquisitor McFarland is illegal, and he should be allowed no further compensation.

Died of Apoplexy. Cleveland, O., Feb. 2.—Ernest G. Krause, 52, one of the wealthiest men of this city, died suddenly following a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Krause was formerly an extensive holder of Ohio coal lands, his properties comprising some of the most valuable fields in the Massillon district, but recently he had disposed of the most of them.

Broker's Death. Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—Collapsing in view of a carful of passengers, Reid M. Duvall, a grain broker, of the firm of Duvall & Son, died in the office of a physician. Death was due to carbolic acid. The son of the dead man declares his father did not take the poison deliberately, that it must have been an accident.

Was Pattison's Physician. Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—Dr. E. J. Wilson, who was chief physician to the late Governor Pattison during the governor's long illness in this city, was operated upon for appendicitis. Dr. Wilson was stricken while riding in an automobile. He hastened to a hospital and was operated upon within a few hours.

Sheriff Mangled in Wreck. Lima, O., Feb. 2.—Sheriff Henry Vanquaten is at the point of death here as the result of a rear-end crash between a southbound freight and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton's fast through passenger No. 7. Vanquaten was in the Pullman when the locomotive of the freight poked its nose into his berth.

Foraker's Daughter Injured. Washington, Feb. 2.—Miss Louise Foraker, daughter of Senator Foraker of Ohio, was slightly injured when a streetcar collided with a carriage in which she was returning from the theater. Miss Foraker was assisted to another carriage and proceeded to her home.

Father Slain by Son. Steubenville, O., Feb. 2.—In a dispute between John Gebhardt and his son, Charles, the father was shot and killed. Gebhardt took his son to task for drinking and, it is alleged, the latter procured a gun and shot him.

Killed by Cars. Ashland, O., Feb. 2.—The dead body of Willard B. Jordan, senior member of the Jordan Brothers' Celery Farm company of Creston, was found near a railroad station. He was killed by cars during a snowstorm.

ALL SOLDIERS ARE INTERESTED IN M'CUMBER BILL

Would Increase Pensions of Those Who Can Show an Honorable Discharge.

Columbus, O., Feb. 2.—There seems to be little doubt in the minds of the local pension authorities that the Mc-Cumber service pension bill, which is soon to be voted upon in the national legislature, will pass by a comfortable margin. By the new bill the rate of pensions for old soldiers is raised and it will effect the law in such a way that any who is over 60 years of age may draw a pension if he can show an honorable discharge.

By the rate now in use soldiers of 62 years of age received $6; those 65 years of age $8; those 68 years of age $10, and those 70 years of age $12. According to the schedule of the new bill old soldiers above 62 years will receive $12; above 70 years $15; above 75 years $20. Columbus receives in round numbers one-tenth of the entire amount paid in pensions by the government, or about $1,000,000 per annum.

In order to apply for a pension under the new law it will be necessary for the applicant to apply to Washington and present the proof of age and honorable discharge. No medical examination will be required, as in the case of application of a pension because of inability. If an old soldier holds a pension under the law of disability he will not be eligible to secure one under the proposed measure. According to the present rate of lessening of the numbers of the pensioners in the Columbus district, it is not likely that the pension office will be abolished here very soon. For the year ending June 30, 1906, there were 4000 names dropped from the pension list in this city because of death, but there were enough new ones added of widows, children and veterans of the Spanish war that the net loss on the pension list only came up to 1767 names.

Arctic Explorer. St. John, Feb. 2.—Captain Arthur Jackman, a well-known navigator, died here, aged 64. He was in command of the ship which carried Commander Robert E. Peary to Greenland in the latter's first expedition in 1896.

FRENCH MANSION WHERE FRENCH BISHOPS DISCUSSED THEIR POLICY.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—It is learned from an ecclesiastical source that as a result of the advice rendered to the Pope at Rome on January 25, by five French prelates, including Bishops Touchet and Dubelle, the Pontiff changed his position toward the Church and State separation question in France and will issue new instructions under which, it is believed, it will be possible to organize public worship under the Supplementary Church and State Separation law introduced by M. Briand, the Minister of Education.

Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, has sent telegrams to the members of the French episcopate requesting them to attend another meeting here. A preliminary assemblage of bishops, at which thirty were present, took place at the residence of M. Denys-Cochin, where the Cardinal has made his headquarters since he was compelled to leave the Episcopal palace.

HAS NO FEAR OF ARMED CONFLICT

SENATOR PERKINS SEES COMMERCIAL CONFLICT BETWEEN U. S. AND JAPS.

Says Races Are Irreconcilable But Progressive Statesmanship Should Preserve Peace.

Washington, Feb. 2.—In an address delivered last night before the National Geographic society, Senator Perkins of California dwelt at length upon the probability of a conflict between the Americans and the Japanese, "two irreconcilable races," as he pronounced them. After speaking of the difficulties overcome in the past in dealing with the Chinese, Senator Perkins said:

"Hawaii has the Japanese on her hands as we in California will soon have; and as this people are more aggressive, more tenacious, most cunning and more determined than the Chinese, it will never do to permit a long delay before settling the question."

"The primary ambition of Japan is to colonize the overpopulation of the empire in adjacent countries under its own sovereignty. This is the true beginning of real national expansion, but in addition to this inherent national traits or patriotic impulses will make them a foreign element in any country to which they migrate. Real expatriation is a condition practically impossible to the Japanese mind."

"We have acquired territory in the Pacific ocean; we have laid the foundation for commercial supremacy on the Pacific ocean, and at some point in the future course of national destiny the pathway of national progress on the part of Japan and the United States will converge to a point of inevitable conflict."

"It is useless to speculate as to what the occasion or excuse for this conflict may be. The small cloud of war, which is now hanging on the horizon appears to relate to the dissatisfaction of Japan with the educational policy of California. But this educational policy is not the reason for disturbing the amicable relations between the two nations. This fundamental cause lies at the very foundation of the national character of the nations to the controversy."

At this juncture the senator introduced a modification of his prediction of conflict, saying:

"The antagonism, however, latent, is present in the conscious intuitions of the two nations; but, however strong the competition between the two countries may be, racial feelings should not, and I believe, will not, lead to actual armed conflict. Japan has given evidence of wise and progressive statesmanship and we can hope also for such in the future as we have had in the past."

"We need not fear serious clashing of interests, however, for the Pacific is wide and the trade to be developed is so immense that it will be long before the pressure of competition between the two countries is felt."

During 1906 America produced 90,000,000 railroad ties and 10,000,000 neckties. Returns in wedding ties have not been received yet.

VENEZUELA'S VICE PR ESIDENT AND THE DEAD GOVERNOR.

CARACAS, Feb. 2.—Dr. Louis Mata Ila, governor of the federal district of Caracas, with a body of troops, surprised Sunday night a secret meeting, which was being held in the coach house of General Juan Vicente Gomez, first vice president of the republic. In the fighting which ensued Dr. Mata Ila received wounds from which he has since died, several men were killed outright, and many others were wounded, among them General Uzcategui, commander of the government troops in the federal district. Serious trouble is anticipated.

KILLED CROW, GOT BACK $200 RING

New York, Feb. 2.—A $200-diamond ring was stolen from Mrs. Herman Stoddard's bedroom, Verona, N. J., the black thief was killed and the ring recovered.

Mrs. Stoddard loves birds. She calls her home "The Aviary." She feeds birds and builds houses for them on the estate. So they become quite fearless, but, of all, a crow has shown the greatest tameness and familiarity. The windows of Mrs. Stoddard's room were open Thursday; her rings were on a dresser. A maid entered the room; the crow was on the dresser; it said "caw" pleasantly to the maid, flew out of a window and perched on a tree branch near. The maid told Mrs. Stoddard, who could not find her engagement ring, where she had left it. She was loath to believe that any of her pets was dishonest, but the crow was under such strong suspicion that Adolph Schmidt shot it. He cut open its crop; there was the ring.

Around the bird's leg was a leather band with three links of a small brass chain, showing it had been in captivity at some time.

DRYDEN BOLT IS SURE TO COME NEXT TUESDAY

New Jersey Legislature Deferred the Break Until the Senator is Heard on Monday.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 2.—No ray of light has appeared to dispel the gloom that envelops the contest of John F. Dryden to succeed himself as United States Senator from New Jersey.

His legislative supporters profess to see hope in the fact that the 36 caucus-bound Republican senators and assemblymen voted solidly for the senator at this week's joint caucus.

But while they profess to see encouragement in that vote, they know that more than one legislator who was prepared to desert Mr. Dryden at this session, only refrained from doing so at the urgent request that they defer breaking until after the senator has met next Monday the Republican members of the legislature in conference.

It is a significant fact that Mr. Dryden deserted Trenton before the joint session convened.

Caucus-bound Republicans, while they pretend to believe that 36 votes will again be delivered to Dryden next Tuesday, in reality know that a break in their ranks will come on that day.

They cannot disguise the fact that they expect Assemblyman J. Nelson Lilligore, of Monmouth, and Henry D. Thompson, of Mercer, will at the next joint session throw off the caucus chains. Both these gentlemen have declared the election of Dryden impossible and have announced their readiness to desert him.

SEQUEL TO PROBE OF COMMISSION OPENS COAL FIELD

Rock Springs, Wyo., Feb. 2.—The first fruits of the interstate commerce commission's investigations into the western coal situation came when the Sioux City and Rock Springs Coal company, which instigated the investigation of the Union Pacific railroad and the coal companies, made public its intention to open up its coal territory on an extensive scale, doubling the capacity of the Wyoming coal mines. The Union Pacific has heretofore refused to build a connecting line to that company's coal lands, but since the investigation of the interstate commerce commission a satisfactory arrangement has been made.

NEARLY OVERCOME BY NATURAL GAS

Coshocton, Feb. 2.—The Standen hotel came near adding to the list of accidents when a man was almost asphyxiated by unburned gas.

The unfortunate gentleman was W. A. Tealvik, who is the carpenter of the show troupe "The Way of the Transgressor." He had gone to his room early in the evening to take a few hours rest before time for the show, and lit the gas in a small stove. He slept some time and awakened to find that the room was full of gas. He could scarcely stand, but managed to get out of the room, into pure air.

When he recovered, examination proved that the gas had escaped from the stove, either from being turned "too high," or from a leak.

Mr. Tealvik was very weak, and hardly able to attend to his duties at the theatre last night. He is feeling himself today again, but it was a very narrow escape.

CAR SHORTAGE IS EXPLAINED BY PENNSYLVANIA

Indianapolis, Feb. 2.—General Manager G. L. Peck of the Pennsylvania line west of Pittsburgh appeared before a joint legislative committee and discussed the present car shortage in connection with a proposed shippers' bill which has been introduced into the legislature. He declared that legislation will not solve the question of traffic congestion. Several other railroad officials also appeared before the joint committee. Mr. Peck asserted that the way some of the shippers proposed to solve the car shortage proposition is simply staggering to railroad men who have spent their lives in the service. According to Mr. Peck the present shortage of cars is caused by the inability of the railroad to get cars returned.

CONFERENCE ON JAPANESE FUSS

Mayor Schmitz and Other Frisco Officials Off For Washington.

INVITED TO WHITE HOUSE

Report That Japan Has Issued Ultimatum on School Question Denied by Secretary Root—Japs in Conference at Los Angeles—Senator Perkins on the Situation.

San Francisco, Feb. 2.—The board of education decided that the entire board, with Superintendent Enrico Rivi, Assistant City Attorney Williams and Mayor Schmitz, will go to Washington to confer with the federal officials on the Japanese question. The determination of the mayor to accompany the school directors came as a great surprise. As Schmitz is under bonds to appear for trial, it will be necessary for him to obtain Judge Dunne's permission to leave the state. The party will leave here Sunday morning.

Gourdo Ikida, secretary of the Japanese Association of America, a prime mover in the Japanese school controversy at San Francisco, departed from this city for Los Angeles to meet 23 representatives of the association for a conference on questions of interest to the Japanese. "We have organized to promote Japanese welfare in America, and this is our third conference," said Ikida. "There are 60,000 Japanese in this country, and there is necessarily much of importance to be discussed. We expect to discuss the advisability of excluding coolies who go to Honolulu as laborers from the mainland. I believe that if only the best class of Japanese merchants come to California there could be no objection. We want to build up our trade and see no reason why we should not bring much that is good to the United States."

No Ultimatum, Says Root.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary Root again refused to make any statement touching the Japanese situation, in its relation to the conferences at the White House between the president, some members of the cabinet, and the California congressional delegation. He does, however, enter a sweeping denial of the authenticity of any of the published interviews attributed to him on any phase of this subject which he regards as eminently unsuited for public discussion. The Japanese ambassador is not accessible to newspaper reporters. Members of the embassy staff affirm that he had not authorized any newspaper statement.

Hobson's Views.

New York, Feb. 2.—"We must fight Japan unless Japan backs down," said Captain Richmond P. Hobson here. "It is inevitable. Japan wants to fight and is being egged on by England, who wants to destroy our commerce in the east. As it stands now Japan could whip us, because we have no navy to save ourselves. Japan would fight us in a minute, were it not for public sentiment and the fact that she must negotiate some loans in England."

More Bodies Recovered.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 2.—Reports from the Stuart mine state that 64 bodies have been removed from the mine and that at least 18 more are known to be still entombed. The scene at the bottom of the shaft was a gruesome one when the new cage made its first descent. All about could be seen the mangled remains of men who had either been blown to the mouth of the shaft or were huddled there when the explosion occurred, trying to get to the top. The work of taking out the bodies is progressing rapidly.

MARITAL TROUBLES OF MARLBOROUGH ARE ADJUSTED

London, Feb. 2.—An authoritative statement, embodying what the family desires to say on the case of the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, was given out. It is as follows: "The differences between the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough have been settled privately. The children will arrive at Sunderland house and the Duchess and her children will proceed to the continent early next week." This statement is somewhat ambiguous, in well-informed quarters the statement is interpreted as meaning that the duke and duchess have arranged privately a settlement under which each will have the care of the children for a portion of the year, and other details.

OIL AND GAS NOTES.

(Utica Herald.)

Licking Glass company well No. 2 was baled and syphoned and is now putting gas into the factory.

Twiggs had a fishing job at the Kirkpatrick well Tuesday, and succeeded in picking up the tools.

The Moran well of the Ohio Fuel, in Liberty township, is in, and it shows up for two millions per day.

The Central Ohio got a light well on the C. W. Ash lease in Bennington township, about one-half million.

Everett has wells under way on Mary Jones, Perry Shaffer and Aaron Channell, none of them due to come in this week.

The wells completed during the past week averaged pretty good—decidedly greater in volume than for the several weeks preceding.

The Ohio Fuel Supply got a fine well on the Rye Ash farm in Clinton township, a few days ago. It is said to be good for four millions.

The steel plant in West Newark has let the contract for a gas well on its premises, the output, if it is a success, to be used at the plant.

The Wayne company was obliged to abandon its well on Joe Wilson in Wayne township, at a depth of 3200 feet, on account of a cave.

Will Alsford No. 2 of the Utica company drowned out Monday, and will have to be syphoned. It is too weak a well to live without a syphon.

The Columbus Gas Co. drilled in on the Eph Webb lease in the Union Station pool last week, and narrowly escaped a duster. The flow was possibly 50,000 feet, which was doubled by a shot.

The Ohio Fuel is not doing much in this part of the field now. The Verona Look well in McKean, and the Effie Oldaker well in Bennington, are two holes still under way. They have rigs up and waiting for the proper time to begin on Theo Campbell, John Ewart, Jones, Horn and Harrod Biggs.

The Logan company has completed two wells and both are good ones. That on the Henry Clements lease in Clinton township, tubed up at a nice three millions, and the third Lew Robinson well in Milford township came in almost as good, making two and a half million.

Mansfield citizens have been crazy the past week over the foul smell of the gas supplied by the Logan. Manager Frank Olmstead says that it was necessary to turn the limestone Burneson wells into the lines to keep up the pressure, but that he would be in shape to cut them out in a few days, and confine their gas to factories only.

Three millions are reported from the L. B. Stark well of the Columbus company in St. Albans township, drilled last Wednesday.

The Mary Watson well is the only one that the Logan has under way just now in this section. The rigs have been up for some time at Margaret Campbell's and Mary Bell's, but work has been withheld. From now till spring there will be little doing.

The new George Sperry No. 4 of the Utica company, has been giving trouble. It cleaned itself nicely after the shot and was tubed. But the packer failed to hold and the water getting to the sand caused the fragments to run in. Kinsey drew the tubing and has been cleaning it out the past week.

IN AND AROUND GRANVILLE.

H. G. Miller, manager of the Crawford Gas company, has succeeded in getting all the salt water out of the low pressure lines here, after a week of hard work.

Last week the Logan Co. leased nine district school lots in Granville township from the township board of education. The consideration was $10 for each lot.

Location No. 2 has been made on the Mrs. L. B. Stark farm in St. Albans township by the Columbus Co. The location is on the south end of the farm and east of the Ohio Fuel well on the Tim Jones farm.

The Eph Webb well in St. Albans township was a big disappointment to the Columbus Co. This location is only eight hundred feet away from the four million Gurney well, and came in Saturday a dry hole, with but little sand. The well was shot on Monday but did not help it so it was plugged.

The Columbus Co. well on the Israel Rees farm, near Luray, came in Tuesday for two and a half million with a deep sand. This well is but a short distance from three other wells which are, all better than ten million, and the company thinks it can increase the volume by shooting it, so the well was shot.

Work on the Central Ohio No. 2 E. L. Jones well, in McKean township was stopped Wednesday on account of a strong vein of water. The well was to have been finished this week. Tubing was hauled from Utica and drilling started again Saturday. The hole is 2025 feet deep.

Another good well came in Wednesday in the Brushy Fork district, in McKean township, on the Miss Mary V. Jones farm. Sand 30 feet. The capacity of the well is not given out by those interested, but the neighbors say it is better than the No. 2 Brooks which was a three and a half million well. The well belongs to the Everett Co., and the next location has not been made.

THE old man took up his mug and shifted along the bench until he was in the shade of the elms that stood before the Cauliflower. The action also had the advantage of bringing him opposite the two strangers who were refreshing themselves after the toils of a long walk in the sun.

"My hearing ain't wot it used to be," he said tremulously. "When you asked me to have a mug o' ale I 'ardly heard you, and if you was to ask me to 'ave another I mightn't hear you at all."

He looked round as the landlord approached and pushed his mug gently in his direction. The landlord, obeying a nod from the second stranger, filled it.

"It puts life into me," said the old man, raising it to his lips and bowing. "It makes me talk."

"Time we were moving, Jack," said the first traveler. The second, assenting to this as an abstract proposition, expressed, however, a determination to finish his pipe first.

"I heard you say something about shooting," continued the old man, "and that reminds me of some shooting we 'ad here once in Claybury. We've always 'ad a lot o' game in these parts, and if it wasn't for a low poaching fellow named Bob Pretty—Claybury's disgrace, I call 'im—we'd 'ave a lot more."

It happened in this way. Squire Rockett was going abroad to foreign parts for a year, and he let The Hall to a gentleman from London named Sutton. A real gentleman he was, open 'anded and free, and just about October he 'ad a lot of 'is friends come down from London to 'elp 'im kill the pheasants.

The first day they frightened more than they killed, but they enjoyed themselves all right until one gentleman who 'adn't shot a single thing all day shot pore Bill Chambers, wot was beating with about a dozen more.

Bill got most of it in the shoulder and a little in the cheek, but the row he see fit to make you'd 'a' thought he'd been killed. He laid on the ground groaning with 'is eyes shut, and everybody thought he was dying till Henery Walker stooped down and asked 'im whether he was hurt.

It took four men to carry Bill 'ome, and he was that particular you wouldn't believe. They 'ad to talk in whispers, and when Peter Gubbins forgot 'imself and began to whistle he asked him where his 'art was. When they walked fast he said they jolted 'im, and when they walked slow he asked 'em whether they'd gone to sleep or wot.

Bill was in bed for nearly a week, but the gentleman was very nice about it and said that it was his fault. He was a very pleasant spoken gentleman, and arter sending Dr. Green to him and saying he'd pay the bill he gave Bill Chambers £10 to make up for 'is sufferings.

Bill 'ad intended to lay up for another week, and the doctor, wot 'ad been calling twice a day, said he wouldn't be responsible for 'is life if he didn't, but the £10 was too much for 'im, and one evening, just a week arter the accident, he turned up at this Cauliflower public 'ouse and began to spend 'is money.

His face was bandaged up, and when he come in he walked feeble-like and spoke in a faint sort o' voice. Smith, the landlord, got 'im a easy chair and a couple of pillows out o' the parlor, and Bill sat there like a king, telling us all his sufferings and wot it felt like to be shot.

I always have said wot a good thing beer is, and it done Bill more good than doctor's medicine. When he came in he could 'ardly crawl, and at 9 o'clock he was out of the easy chair and dancing on the table as well as possible. He smashed three mugs and upset about two pints o' beer, but he just put his 'and in his pocket and paid for 'em without a word.

"There's plenty more where that came from," he ses, pulling out a handful o' money.

Peter Gubbins looked at it, 'ardly able to speak. "It's worth while being shot to 'ave all that money," he ses at last.

"Don't you worry yourself, Peter," ses Bob Pretty. "There's plenty more of you as'll be shot arter them gentlemen at The Hall 'as finished. Bill's the last, but he won't be the last—not by a long chalk."

"They're more careful now," ses Dicky Weed, the tailor.

"All right. 'Ave it your own way," ses Bob, nasty-like. "I don't know much about shooting, being only a pore laborin' man. All I know is I shouldn't like to go beating for them. I'm too fond o' my wife and family."

"There won't be no more shot," ses Sam Jones.

"We're too careful," ses Peter Gubbins.

"Bob Pretty don't know everything," ses Dicky Weed.

"I'll bet you what you like there'll be some more of you shot," ses Bob Pretty, in a temper. "Now, then."

"Ow much'll you bet, Bob?" ses Sam Jones, with a wink at the others. "I can see you winning, Sam Jones," ses Bob Pretty, "but I'll do more than bet. The last bet I won is still owing to me. Now, look 'ere, I'll pay you sixpence a week all the time you're beating if you promise to give me arr or wot you get if you're shot. I can't say fairer than that."

"Will you give me sixpence a week, too?" ses Henery Walker, jumping up.

"I will," ses Bob, "and anybody else that likes. And, wot's more, I'll pay in advance. Fust sixpences now."

Claybury men 'ave never been backward when there's been money to be made easy, and they all wanted to join Bob Pretty's club, as he called it. But fust of all he asked for a pen and ink, and then he got Smith, the landlord, being a scholar, to write out a paper for them to sign. Henery Walker was the fust to write 'is name, and then Sam Jones, Peter Gubbins, Ralph Thomson, Jem Hall and Walter Bell wrote theirs. Bob stopped 'em then, and said six 'ad be enough to go on with; and then he paid up the sixpences and wished 'em luck.

Wot they liked 'a most as well as the sixpences was the idea o' getting the better o' Bob Pretty. As I said afore, he was a poacher, and that artful that up to that time nobody 'ad ever got the better o' 'im.

They made so much fun of 'im the next night that Bob turned sulky and went off 'ome, and for two or three nights he 'ardly showed his face; and the next shoot they 'ad he went off to Wickham and nobody saw 'im all day. That very day Henery Walker was shot. Several gentlemen fired at a rabbit that was started, and the next thing they knew Henery Walker was lying on the ground calling out that 'is leg 'ad been shot off.

The fust Bob Pretty 'eard of it was up at the Cauliflower at 8 o'clock that evening, and he set down 'is beer and set off to see Henery as fast as 'is legs could carry 'im. Henery was asleep when he got there, and, do all he could, Bob Pretty couldn't wake 'im till he sat down gentle on 'is bad leg.

"I quite forgot you was on my club till Smith reminded me of it," ses Bob. "Don't you take a farthing less than £10, Henery."

Henery Walker shut his eyes again. "I forgot to tell you I made up my mind this morning not to belong to your club any more, Bob," he ses.

"Why didn't you come and tell me, Henery, instead of leaving it till it was too late?" ses Bob, shaking his 'ead at 'im.

"I shall want all that money," ses Henery in a weak voice. "I might 'ave to have a wooden leg, Bob."

"Don't meet troubles arf way, Henery," ses Bob in a kind voice. "I've no doubt Mr. Sutton 'll throw in a wooden leg if you want it, and look here, if he does, I won't trouble you for my arf of it."

He said good night to Henery and went off, and when Mrs. Walker went up to see 'ow Henery was getting on he was carrying on that alarming that she couldn't do nothing with 'im.

He was laid up for over a week, though it's my opinion he wasn't much hurt, and the trouble was that nobody knew which gentleman 'ad shot 'im. Mr. Sutton talked it over with them, and at last, arter a good deal o' trouble and Henery pulling up 'is trousers and showing them 'is leg till they was fair sick of the sight of it, they paid 'im £10, the same as they 'ad Bill.

Everybody thought he was dying.

It took Bob Pretty two days to get his arf, but he kept very quiet about it, not wishing to make a fuss in the village for fear Mr. Sutton should get to hear of the club. At last he told Henery Walker that he was going to Wickham to see 'is lawyer about it, and, arter Smith, the landlord, 'ad read the paper to Henery and explained 'ow he'd very likely 'ave to pay more than the whole £10 then, he gave Bob his arf and said he never wanted to see 'im again as long as he lived.

Bob stood treat up at the Cauliflower that night and said 'ow bad he'd been treated. The tears stood in 'is eyes 'a most, and at last he said that if he thought there was going to be any more fuss of that kind he'd wind up the club.

"It's the best thing you can do," ses Sam Jones. "I'm not going to belong to it any longer, so I give you notice. If so be as I get shot I want the money for myself."

"Me, too," ses Peter Gubbins. "It 'ad fair break my 'art to give Bob Pretty £5. I'd sooner give it to my wife."

All the other chaps said the same thing, but Bob pointed out to them that they 'ad taken their sixpences only the night afore, and they must stay in for the week. He said that was the law. Some o' 'em talked about giving 'im 'is sixpences back, but Bob said if they did they must pay up all the sixpences they had 'ad for three weeks. The end of it was they said they'd stay in for that week and not a moment longer.

The next day Sam Jones and Peter Gubbins altered their minds. Sam found a couple o' shillings that his wife 'ad hidden in her Sunday bonnet, and Peter Gubbins opened 'is boy's money box to see 'ow much there was in it. They came up to the Cauliflower to pay Bob their eightpences, but he wasn't there, and when they went to his 'ouse Mrs. Pretty said as 'ow he'd gone off to Wickham and wouldn't be back till Saturday. So they 'ad to spend the money on beer instead.

That was on Tuesday, and things went on all right till Friday, when Mr. Sutton 'ad another shoot. The birds was getting scarce and the gentlemen that anxious to shoot them there was no 'olding them. Once or twice the keepers spoke to 'em about carefulness and said wot large families they'd got, but it wasn't much good. They went on blazing away, and just at the corner of the wood Sam Jones and Peter Gubbins was both hit—Sam in the leg and Peter in the arm.

The noise that was made was awful—everybody shouting that they 'adn't done it, and all speaking at once, and Mr. Sutton was dancing about 'a most beside 'imself with rage.

"There seems to be wounded men calling out all over the place," he ses in a temper.

"I think there is another one over there, sir," ses one o' the keepers, pointing.

Sam Jones and Peter Gubbins both left off to listen, and then they all heard it distinctly.

A dreadful noise it was, and when Mr. Sutton and one or two more followed it up they found poor Walter Bell lying on 'is face in a bramble.

"Wot's the matter?" ses Mr. Sutton, shouting at 'im.

"I've been shot from behind," ses Walter. "I'd got something in my boot, and I was just stooping to fasten it up ag'in when I got it."

"But there oughtn't to be anybody 'ere," ses Mr. Sutton to one of the keepers.

"They get all over the place, sir," ses the keeper, scratching his 'ead. "I fancied I 'eard a gun go off here a minute or two arter the others was shot."

"I believe he's done it 'imself," says Mr. Sutton, stamping his foot.

"I don't see 'ow he could, sir," ses the keeper, touching his cap and looking at Walter as was still lying with 'is face on 'is arms.

Of course there was a terrible do about it in Claybury and up at The Hall too. All of the gentlemen said as 'ow they 'adn't done it, and Mr. Sutton was arf crazy with rage. He said that they 'ad made 'im the laughingstock of the neighborhood and that they oughtn't to shoot with anything but popguns.

There was a lot of talk up at the Cauliflower, too, and more than one pointed out 'ow lucky Bob Pretty was in getting four men out of the six in his club. As I said afore, Bob was away at the time, but he came back the next night, and we 'ad the biggest row here you wot wish for to see.

Henery Walker began it. "I s'pose you've 'eard the dreadful news, Bob Pretty?" he ses, looking at 'im.

"I 'ave," ses Bob, "and my 'art bled for 'em. I told you wot those gentlemen was like, didn't I? But none of you would believe me. Now you can see as I was right."

"It's very strange," ses Henery Walker, looking round; "it's very strange that all of us wot's been shot belonged to Bob Pretty's precious club."

"It's my luck, Henery," ses Bob.

"I always was lucky from a child," ses Henery Walker.

"And I s'pose you think you're going to 'ave arf of the money they get?" ses Henery Walker.

"Don't talk about money while them pore chaps is suffering," ses Bob. "I'm surprised at you, Henery."

"You won't 'ave a farthing of it," ses Henery Walker, "and wot's more, Bob Pretty, I'm going to 'ave my £5 back."

"Don't you believe it, Henery," ses Bob, smiling at 'im.

"I'm going to 'ave my £5 back," ses Henery, "and you know why. I know wot your club was for now, and we was all a pack o' silly fools not to see it afore."

"Speak for yourself, Henery," ses John Biggs, who thought Henery was looking at 'im.

"I've been putting two and two together," ses Henery, looking round, "and it's as plain as the nose on your face. Bob Pretty hid up in the wood and shot us all 'imself!"

For a moment you might 'ave heard a pin drop, and then there was such a noise nobody could hear themselves speak. Everybody was shouting his 'ardest, and the only quiet one there was Bob Pretty 'imself.

"Poor Henery. He's gorn mad," he ses, shaking his 'ead.

"You're a murderer," ses Ralph Thomson, shaking 'is fist at him.

"Henery Walker's gorn mad," ses Bob ag'in. "Why, I ain't been near the place. There's a dozen men'll swear that I was at Wickham each time these misfortunate accidents 'appened."

"Men like you, they'd swear anything for a pot o' beer," ses Henery.

"But I'm not going to waste time talking to you, Bob Pretty. I'm going straight off to tell Mr. Sutton."

"I shouldn't do that if I was you, Henery," ses Bob.

"I desay," ses Henery Walker, "but then, you see, I am."

"I thought you'd gorn mad, Henery," ses Bob, taking a drink o' beer that somebody 'ad left on the table by mistake, "and now I'm sure of it. Why, if you tell Mr. Sutton that it wasn't his friends that shot them pore fellows he won't pay them anything. Tain't likely he would, is it?"

Henery Walker, wot 'ad been stand-

"And he might want your £10 back, Henery," said Bob in a soft voice.

"And seeing as 'ow you was kind enough to give £5 to me and spent most of the other it 'ud come 'ard on you, wouldn't it? Always think afore you speak, Henery. I always do."

Henery Walker got up and tried to speak, but he couldn't, and he didn't get 'is breath back till Bob said it was plain to see that he 'adn't got a word to say for 'imself. Then he shook 'is fist at Bob and called 'im a low, thieving, poaching murderer.

"You're not yourself, Henery," ses Bob. "When you come round you'll be sorry for trying to take away the character of a poor laborin' man with a ailing wife and a large family. But if you take my advice you won't say anything more about your wicked ideas."

That was only common sense; but, as John Biggs said, it did seem 'ard to think as 'ow Bob Pretty should be allowed to get off scot free, and with Henery Walker's £5 too. "There's one thing," he ses to Bob, "you won't 'ave any of these other pore chaps' money,

Bob Pretty couldn't wake 'im till he sat down gentle on 'is bad leg.

and if they men they ought to make it up to Henery Walker for the money he 'as saved 'em by finding you out."

"They've got to pay me fust," ses Bob. "I'm a pore man, but I'll stick up for my rights. As for me shooting 'em, they'd 'a' been 'urt for a good deal more if I'd done it, especially Mr. Henery Walker. Why, they're hardly 'urt at all."

"Don't answer 'im, Henery," ses John

Biggs. "You save your breath to go and tell Sam Jones and the others about it. I'll cheer 'em up."

"And tell 'em about my arf in case they get too cheerful and go overdoing it," ses Bob Pretty, stopping at the door. "Good night all."

Mr. Sutton went down to see 'em all a day or two afterward. The shooting party was broken up and gone 'ome, but they left some money behind 'em. Ten pounds each they was to 'ave, same as the others, but Mr. Sutton said that he 'ad heard 'ow the other money was wasted at the Cauliflower, and he was going to give it out to 'em 10 shillings a week until the money was gorn. He 'ad to say it over and over ag'in afore they understood 'im, and Walter Bell 'ad to stuff the bedclothes in 'is mouth to keep civil.

Peter Gubbins, with 'is arm tied up in a sling, was the fust one to turn up at the Cauliflower, and he was that down'arted about it we couldn't do nothing with 'im. He 'ad expected to be able to pull out ten golden sovereigns, and the disappointment was too much for 'im.

"I wonder 'ow they heard about it," ses Dicky Weed.

"I can tell you," ses Bob Pretty, wot 'ad been sitting up in a corner by himself, nodding and smiling at Peter, wot wouldn't look at 'im. "A friend o' mine at Wickham wrote to him about it. He was so disgusted at the way Bill Chambers and Henery Walker come up 'ere wasting their 'ard earned money, that he sent 'im a letter, signed 'A Friend of the Working Man,' telling 'im about it and advising 'im what to do."

"A friend o' yours?" ses John Biggs, staring at 'im. "What for?"

"I don't know," ses Bob; "he's a wonderful good scholar, and he likes writin' letters. He's going to write another tomorrow, unless I stop 'im."

"Wot about?"

"About the idea that I shot you all," ses Bob. "I want my character cleared. O' course, they can't prove anything against me—I've got my witnesses. But, taking one thing with another, I see now that it does look suspicious, and I don't suppose any of you'll get any more of your money. Mr. Sutton is so sick o' being laughed at he'll jump at anything."

"You don't do it, Bob," ses Peter. "It ain't me, Peter, old pal," ses Bob; "it's my friend. But I don't mind stopping 'im for the sake of old times if I get my arf."

At fust Peter said he wouldn't get a farthing out of 'im if his friend wrote letters till doom-day; but by and by he thought better of it, and asked Bob to stay there while he went down to see Sam and Walter about it. When he came back he'd got the fust week's money for Bob Pretty; but he said he left Walter Bell carrying on like a madman, and, as for Sam Jones, he was that upset he didn't believe he'd last out the night.

AT GRANVILLE THE WEEK OF PRAYER FOR COLLEGES

WAS OBSERVED AS USUAL BY DENISON UNIVERSITY THIS YEAR.

Mrs. W. H. Kussmaul's Birthday Fittingly Celebrated—Serious Accident to Mrs. Ackley.

Granville, Feb. 2.—The Day of Prayer for Colleges was observed Thursday by Denison University. The exercises of the day were commenced with a meeting at 10 o'clock in the morning. Owing to the fact that Dr. Woolfkin was delayed three hours in reaching Granville, Dr. Hunt, president of the college, preached a most helpful sermon. Mrs. Wilson, director of the musical department of Denison, sang a most beautiful solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd." At 3 and 7 o'clock meetings were held in the Baptist church, led by Dr. Woolfkin. Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock a meeting for the young men was held in Sherwin hall, and one for the young ladies at 3 in the afternoon in Recital hall. These were both led by Dr. Woolfkin, and were most helpful. At 7 o'clock in the evening a meeting was held in the Baptist church, conducted by Dr. Woolfkin. A quartet consisting of Mr. Charles Thomas, Harold Thomas, Joseph Lloyd and Mr. Rockwood sang "Though Your Sins be as Scarlet." Dr. Woolfkin has consented to remain over Sunday.

Thursday, Jan. 31, was the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. W. H. Kussmaul, and quite a number of her friends learning of this fact determined that it should be appropriately celebrated. A surprise was planned, and on Thursday evening a crowd of people, mostly married, invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kussmaul, who both happened to be at home, were given the surprise of their lives, and at first were unable to comprehend the meaning of the invasion. They were soon made to understand, however, and they devoted themselves assiduously to the entertainment of the self-invited guests. The evening was spent in having a good social time and cards, etc., were enjoyed, seasoned with a lunch served late in the evening. The affair was a most enjoyable one, and all who were present had a pleasant time.

Mr. Wade Moran, a well known resident of Johnstown, had the misfortune to meet with a very painful and serious accident here on Friday. He had come down to Granville on business connected with the estate of F. A. Moran, of which he is the administrator, and of which Mr. J. S. Graham is the administrator. His business was with Mr. Graham and as he was ascending the stone steps of Mr. Graham's residence he slipped on the ice and fell, cutting a bad gash in his head. His injury was attended to and he was removed to his home in Johnstown.

Mrs. J. W. Ackley had the misfortune to meet with a very painful and serious injury Wednesday night. She was on her way to the drug store of Mr. Ackley when she slipped and fell on the icy alk, badly fracturing the bones on both sides of her ankle. She was taken to her home and a doctor called who attended to the injury, and at this writing she is resting comfortably.

Miss Ella Downing, daughter of Col. C. M. Downing of Pittsburg, Pa., who has been visiting relatives and friends in Granville and vicinity for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, of Fairfield county, were in the village a short time on Friday. They were returning home after a short visit with their daughter, Mrs. G. M. Patrick in Toledo.

Wallace Embrey, a prominent young business man of Detroit, was in town Friday, shaking hands with old friends.

Miss Mary Ferguson, assistant principal of the Croton high school, spent Saturday at her home in Granville.

Mrs. Sereno Haynes, who has been very sick for the past three weeks, is able to be around the house again.

Mr. Edward Smoots has been seriously ill with a lung trouble at his home on West Broadway for some time.

All the gas companies have quit drilling around Granville for the winter, excepting the Columbus Co., which has five strings going in this territory. The fact all of them have reduced their drilling force in the Licking-Knox field also, but they will all go at it in the spring.

QUAINT EFFECTS ARE HIGHLY MODISH.

Charming to a degree are the quaint effects that have been prepared for wear by the younger generation this winter. Everything possible is done by the designers to keep the little garments, and all their accessories, as far as possible from displaying any hint of the tendency to grown-upness—to coin a word for the occasion—in their lines or effect. The dear old fashioned looking bonnet in the picture is made from one of those big and floppy French flat shapes, the broad brim wired to hold the bonnet in shape, and the crown setting comfortably to the shape of the head.

Quaint and old-fashioned ruchings decorate the underbrim, and little pink moss rosebuds are tucked in against the face ruche. Big bows of white satin ribbon, dotted with clusters of roses, trim the upper part, and the same ribbon furnishes the quaint strings that are tied demurely beneath the little maid's chin. The coat is made of a deep shade of rose-red broadcloth, piped with velvet of a deeper shade. Something of the Russian blouse model is followed, a hint of surplice design appearing in the arrangement of the fronts, and the chemisette that fills in the open spaces being of white cloth embroidered in the center. The sleeve is large and loose, the turn over cuff piped with velvet to accord with the coat. A black patent leather belt is loosely decorated around the hips, holding the simply smart little garment a trifle closer to the figure.

A BALTIMORE WOMAN

Tells How She Was Cured of Grip
by Father John's Medicine

Mrs. E. Hogan of 926 Lombard St., Baltimore, Md., says: "One year ago I was taken sick with the grip and my health was completely shattered. I tried different medicines and different doctors but could not get relief, until I took Father John's Medicine. I have steadily and rapidly regained my health, and am today healthier than I have been for years. Father John's Medicine is the best tonic and body builder in the world; I have recommended it to all whom I know and I cannot say too much for it (Signed) Mrs. E. Hogan." Remember, not a patent medicine and free from weakening stimulants or dangerous drugs—a food medicine.

PATASKALA NEWS

Pataskala, O., Feb. 2.—The McNaught Bros.' huckster wagon of Summit Station, driven by Gale McIntosh, was in a runaway south of Wagram which resulted in considerable damage. By reason of some breakage about the wagon the horses started to run and the driver was unable to stop them. After scattering groceries along the road, the animals were finally stopped by Homer Kuhn, after Mrs. Jacob Harmon had made a brave attempt at their capture. One of the animals was badly injured.

The casing was recently pulled from the Miller well, and oil is now bubbling from a pipe projecting several feet above the ground. Although this well was abandoned as almost a dry hole, it is possible that it may yet develop oil in paying quantities.

The Mutual Telephone company is negotiating with a number of companies for a switchboard for an exchange to be established here. It is true the village council has not as yet granted a franchise, but there is but little doubt that it will eventually give the authority.

The Ohio Fuel company has begun work in a derrick on the old "Dairy" farm four and a half miles east of Pataskala, where a flow of oil is anticipated. We understand this company expects to develop the territory west from this farm.

Mrs. Kenton King and children of Newark have been the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Morrison of Pataskala.

Mr. W. H. Thurst spent his two days' vacation with Newark friends.

POSTAL SUPPLIES ARE BEING SENT TO DESTINATIONS

IN ANTICIPATION OF THE QUAD-RENNAL REWEIGHING OF THE MAILS.

Upon Which the Rates Paid to Railroads for Carrying It is Determined.

In anticipation of the reweighing of the mails of the fifth district in which Newark is located, the post-office department is rushing hundreds of tons of supplies to their various destinations. The reweighing, which takes place every four years in each district, will begin for the fifth district probably within the next two weeks.

Some of the railroads in the West have protested to the government against the practice of rushing a great tonnage of supplies to destinations before the weighing begins. In this way the government prevents the supplies from being reckoned in the weighing, which is made for the purpose of determining the pay which the railroads shall receive for their carriage service.

Between now and the middle of February it is expected that several carloads of postoffice supplies will be carried through Newark to be distributed before the reweighing begins.

The fifth district comprises the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, with headquarters at Cincinnati. When the reweighing begins there will be at least 50 men engaged in the work. The reweighing continues for about 113 days, all of the mails which are put on and all that are taken off of all established routes being carefully weighed.

Out of the reweighing period there will be a total of 90 working days, and the total tonnage of each route for the entire reweighing period will be divided by 90, the working days, in order to determine the average tonnage carried per day.

Upon this tonnage so determined the pay is scaled, and when fixed will remain the rate which the railroads shall receive until the mails are reweighed four years hence.

It shows that 2,320 trees were destroyed by order of the inspector last year, because afflicted with dangerous plant diseases, 26,914 pieces of nursery stock were condemned and destroyed and 2,868,108 trees fumigated for infection. There were 59 applications made to the department to have orchards inspected.

JUDGE VOORHEES

Will be Appointed to Assist Prosecutor McDowell, in Coshocton Murder Case.

Coshocton, O., Feb. 2.—Judge Voorhees will be appointed by Judge Nicholas to assist Prosecutor Joe McDowell in the trial of Ida May Bordenkircher on the charge of having murdered her husband.

This was decided after conference between the prosecutor and the court. Mr. McDowell does not underestimate the importance of the case and appreciates the demand from the people that every possibility against a mistrial be carefully prevented in advance. After conferring with Judge Voorhees he sounded the court and it can now be said positively that the appointment of an assistant will be requested, and further, that if the request is made it will certainly be granted.

I Know so Positively What Kosmeo Will Do

because I am a grandmother with grandchildren old enough to go to school and I have made it and used it myself for 16 years, and it has kept my skin youthful, and because I have received thousands of letters from ladies who have given it a fair, thorough test, and who are delighted with the improvement in their complexions.

Kosmeo

The Beauty Maker

removes the signs of age—keeps the skin youthful and makes it sun- and wind-proof. Kosmeo cleanses every pore of the skin and removes all the dirt and hardened secretions, giving new life to the indolent, clogged pores, and gradually refining and closing the coarse open pores. It gives a delightful freshness to the harsh, dry skin and prevents the wrinkles that always result from a dry skin. It soothes and almost immediately heals the chapped, irritated skin. It removes sunburn and tan. It absolutely prevents freckles, tan and sunburn and other harmful effects of sun and wind. It keeps the skin soft, clear and velvety—looking as fresh as a young girl's and feeling as fresh as it looks. It is delightful for men's use after shaving.

Ask your Druggist for a 50c Jar

If he does not keep it, write to me telling me his name, and I will either send you a jar, prepaid at the same price (50c) or I will give you the name of some other druggist in your city from whom you can get Kosmeo.

Take this jar home with you. Just before you retire, rub a little Kosmeo on your face and neck—it is not necessary to rub it hard—leave it a moment and then wipe it off. At once you will notice the fresh delicious feeling it gives your skin. You will see too how much cleaner and better, and how much freer from blemish, your skin becomes as you use Kosmeo day by day.

No special rubbing or massage is required with Kosmeo. In the preparation itself lies the virtue. But you can find out for yourself much better than I can tell you how great will be the luxury, the benefit, the improvement which will come to you after a fair trial of Kosmeo. Kosmeo does not contain animal fat or mineral oils, therefore will not grow hair on the face.
